A Rubber Crisis
Noble Typewriter
Longing for Solitude

A[nother] CRISIS in the rubber business. One great rubber company, although it has plenty of money, passes its regular stock dividend, waiting to see what will turn up. The British are trying the scheme to monopolize rubber and prices will drop.

• • •

THE rubber companies might find a way to distribute tires more cheaply. If it cost as much proportionately to distribute tires as it does to distribute a $700 car would cost $1,500.

General Motors, willing to try anything and usually succeeding, may [buy] one of the automobile tire manufacturers.

MERCEDES GLEITZ swam the Straits of Gibraltar on Wednesday, from Spain to Africa, 27 miles. The [reason] is a typewriter—and that's the interesting part of it. You marvel that a woman leading a sedentary life should be so athletic. Typewriting develops nervous energy. And dealing with dull ill-tempered employers develops mental determination. That explains it.

MANY old people long to retire from the world and escape observation. Toward the last, wandered away from his family to be alone.

James Swinnerton has painted an old lion on the western desert retiring into a cave as he felt death impending, with just strength enough left to block the mouth with a stone and keep out others wishing to die alone.

In Vermont an old woman dies, having lived a recluse more than 30 years. A strange desire. The grave promises solitude sufficiently complete to satisfy anybody. And it will come.

JUDGE BUFFINGTON of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals recommends the whipping post for criminals. The whip frightens the criminals—usually physical cowards—and a lashing would cause a gang leader to lose caste with his clash, as Judge Kavanaugh of Chicago says.

The important question is, Would the whipping, encouraging and setting an example of brutality breed more crime?

• • •

IF the whipping post comes into general use, it should be a mechanical whipping post, delivering blows of definite, legally established strength. Under our grafting system a small fee would make the beating mild, failure to pay would be well punished.

IN the "judgment of God" trials in the middle ages there was much cheating. An influential bishop, for instance, was sentenced to prove his innocence and morality by walking barefoot on red-hot plowshares. The plowshares were painted red, not heated. That cleared the bishop, nobly vindicated.

THE talented Russians have some queer ideas, including ideas of humor. The story about an Armenian shooting Trotzky was an April fool joke.

The learned writer of "The Golden Bough" tells of Russian peasants in the Springtime seizing the priest, rolling him over and over in the mud across newly planted fields to increase the crops and saying to the [priest] preacher of the Greek church: "Don't object, little father, you live by our crops so help us to make them [grow]."

BRITAIN plans gigantic bombing planes, each with gun turrets on the wings, one on each wing tip, one in the center.

Gunners in the flying turrets have no "blind spots"—perfect vision in all directions. Their quick-firing guns could fight off swifter pursuit planes attacking, while they dropped bombs on the cities below.

Fortunately these planes are not planned to attack us. We are about as well prepared to receive them as a rabbit in an open field to receive half a dozen eagles.

GOVERNOR SMITH vetoes a bill that would prevent development of important water power and does it wisely. Nature lovers say the scenery around the proposed hydro-electric development is beautiful, and they don't want it disturbed.

There is plenty of beautiful scenery. It is not plenty of electric power. What there is should be used.

DATE IS FIXED FOR VISIT HERE OF NOTED FLIER

Clarence Chamberlin Coming to Marion on May 9

PLANS ANNOUNCED

Illustrated Address at Chautauqua Pavilion To Climax Program

Clarence Chamberlin, world renowned aviator and holder of the world's long distance flight record, will visit Marion May 9.

This was the announcement today of Charles Whysall, chairman of the airport committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the visit of the transatlantic flyer here. Whysall's announcement followed communication with the New York office of the firm that is promoting the Chamberlin air tour.

Plans for Chamberlin's visit call for four appearances of the famous flyer. He will address audiences of Marion school children at meetings for them only. School officials favor the visit and will co-operate in arranging plans for the addresses. During the afternoon Chamberlin will give an exhibition in the plane in which he is making the air tour.

Address at Night

The feature of the visit will be an address at the Chautauqua pavilion at night. Chamberlin's subject will be "Arguing My Way Across the Atlantic." Supplementing the address will be four reels of motion pictures showing the recent development in aviation and progress many cities in the United States are making in way of establishing municipal airports.

To bring Chamberlin here the Junior Chamber of Commerce must guarantee the firm of William B. Feaking, Inc., $1,000 at the time the contract is signed. This sum is being underwritten by local merchants. In three hours yesterday afternoon members of the Junior Chamber airport committee secured pledges totaling more than $500.

Expect Big Sale

"There is little possibility," Whysall said today, "that guarantors will be called upon for funds. Ample funds to meet the expenses of the visit are expected to be raised by the sale of tickets to the night lecture.

Tickets for the lecture will go on sale next week and will sell for 50 cents each. As the seating capacity

WARNER IS SPEAKER AT WILLIS SERVICE

Marion Man Included in Memorial for Senator Held in Columbus

Fred W. Warner of Marion, chairman of the state Republican central committee, was one of the speakers at a memorial services held in Columbus, last night, in honor of the late Senator Frank B. Willis.

The principal speaker in the program, arranged by the Women's Republican Club of Ohio, was former Congressman Ralph D. Cole of Findlay. The service was held in the chamber of the House of Representatives at the statehouse.

Cole's Tribute

"Senator Willis was a natural born leader of men and had the power to inspire public confidence," Cole said in his tribute. "He was as steadfast in his orbit of truth and honor as the sun is in its course. There was no trickery nor deceit in him. He was incapable of doing an ignoble thing."

Other speakers were Mrs. Viola D. Romans, president of the Women's Republican Club of Ohio, who conducted the service, Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, manager of the Willis presidential campaign, Federal Judge Benson W. Hough of Columbus, Charles A. Jones, secretary to Willis, and several other prominent Republicans.

WILBUR URGES BUSINESS TO SUPPORT BIG NAVY

PHONE FINANCE PLAN OUTLINED FOR APPROVAL

Ohio Associated Co. Reports Stock Issue Program To State Commission

Formal request for official approval of the purchase of independent telephone companies in towns surrounding Marion was made yesterday by the Ohio Associated Telephone Co., which has its central office in Marion, to the State Utilities Commission. The company also asked for sanction of financing plans for purchase of the independent properties.

The proposed financing plans follow: Properties of the Richwood Telephone Co., issuing in payment therefor 510 shares of no-par common stock, 110 shares of no-par $6 preferred stock and $53,100 in first morigage 6 per cent bonds.

Properties of the Nevada Telephone Co. for 300 shares of no-par common, 65 shares of $6 no-par preferred stock and $35,000 in first mortgage 6 per cent bonds.

Properties of the Prospect Telephone Co. for 240 shares of no-par common stock, 50 shares $6 preferred no-par, and $24,000 in first mortgage 6 per cent bonds.

Issues Planned

The Ohio Associated Co. also asked for permission to issue the above-mentioned securities to be used in buying these properties.

The utilities commission, some time ago, valued the Ohio Associated Co. no-par preferred stock at $105 per share and its common stock at $50 a share, it was stated.

The Richwood Company, which has $47,700 in stock outstanding, submitted a new appraisal of its property

THREE GIVEN $2,000 TO DESTROY THEATER

Plan Speedy Trial for Dynamiters of Million Dollar Movie Palace

Crown Point, Ind., April 7—Two thousand dollars was the price paid for the destruction of the State Theater, Hammond's million dollar movie palace, according to the confessions made by the three leading conspirators to Prosecuting Attorney Oliver Starr. Sheriff Ben Strong and Deputy Fire Marshall Elmer Vrooman. These officials today took steps for the speedy trial of the bombers.

All confessions state that William Kleihege, Sr., the lessee of the State Theater whose ownership of other theaters in the Calumet region made the lease a losing proposition, was responsible for the bombing.

The first break in the dynamiter's ring occurred following the arrest of Marwood Williams, trustee of the Hammond Hod Carriers' and Common Laborers' Union, who failed to receive any part of the money promised him. He was arrested in the latter part of March and gave two previous confessions admitting participation in other bombings before he told the authorities the full story of the State Theater plot.

FEAR FOR LINER

Vessel Overdue Week at Yokohama; SOS Report Received

Tokio, April 7—Grave fears were felt today for the safety of the Prince liner Asiastic Prince, bound from New York to Yokohama, and now a week overdue at the latter port.

The City of Eastbourne, of the Ellerman line, reported upon its arrival here today that it had picked up an S. O. S. message from the Prince liner on March 24, in the midst of a terrific storm while off Honolulu.

The Asiatic Prince is manned by 14 officers and 40 seamen. Except for the City of Eastbourne's report, no word for the missing liner has been received.

FAVORS PLAN FOR UPTOWN IMPROVEMENT

Councilman Predicts Project Will Get Official Approval

VIEW OF PRETTYMAN

Property Owners Partially Complete Work of Circulating Petitions

Proped improvement of Center and Main st in the uptown business district, ptitions for which are now in circulation, has been informally discussed by members of City Council, R. E. Pettyman, chairman of the Council finance committee, stated today. He expressed the opinion that the project will receive favorable consideration whe presented to council.

In past discussions, the finance committee chairman says, he has suggested that the uptown thoroughfares might be placed in suitable condition by resurfacing. It is not expected, however, that definite plans on the actual work would be taken up until after preliminanary legislation is enacted. Property owners promoting the improvement project have indicated that they will request complete reconstruction of the pavings.

Financing Problem

The question of financing will be one of the most important points to be considered at the outset, Prettyman said. He stated that the city is limited by law in the amount of money which can be obtained from bond issues each year and that this restriction might prevent entering into the whole uptown improvement program in 1929.

Business men and property owners promoting the improvement project have secured sufficient signatures to authorize the Main-st paving from the railways to Church-st, it was stated today. Circulating of petitions for the Center-st project from Main-st east are now under way. Plans also include proposed installation of a modern white way.

The promoters plan to meet next week to perfect an organization and this will be followed by presentation of the petitions to council. The object of the organization, it was stated, is to place the proposal before Council as soon as possible in order that it may be listed at the head of improvement projects planned for the future.

Legislation Adopted

Legislation authorizing completion of the W. Center-st paving improvement from Oak-st to Main-st has already been adopted. Council, Prettyman said today, has expected to order this work done next year.

It was also stated that reconstruction of the Prospect-st paving between the railroads and Columbia-st is being vigorously advocated and that the proposal is favorably considered by council.

20 MARRIED

British Soldiers in Bombay Land Brides Through Advertisements

Bombay, India, April 7—Twenty prospective brides of British soldiers who arrived here upon the liner City of Paris, were all married within an hour after they had debarked. The brides leaned over the rail of the vessel waving to their prospective husbands.

Some of them had not seen their fiances before, the marriages having been arranged through advertisements. These held photographs in their hands and scrutinized the men until they were identified. Some of the brides and bridegrooms were unoubtely not as good looking as they appeared in the photographs.

REAL EASTER EGG

Goose Egg Weighing Three-Quarters of a Pound Comes From Caledonia

AN honest-to-goodness Easter egg was brought to The Star today by M. A. Griffis of Caledonia.

The egg, which was a goose egg, measured eight and one-half inches in circumference in width and 12¼ inches in circumference lengthwise. It weighed three-quarters of a pound.

The egg, acording to Griffis, was the largest he had ever seen. He believed, it probably would be found to be a double yolk egg.

Snappy Suspenders and Purple Garters Go Back to Boxes; Rain for Sunday

PLANS for the annual Easter parade when all the new togs in the city are put on display, appeared to be "all wet" today. J. Pluvius practically eliminated the possibility of a style show on the streets of the city Sunday when he ordered a generous supply of rain.

The weatherman, evidently in collusion with the rainmaker, offered little satisfaction in his forecast for Easter Sunday.

Up with the birds, down with the orange juice, and out with the barometer, the weatherman was all set to dope out a lovely Easter Sunday until he found that his last spring suit wasn't back from the dye cleaners. Facing the prospect of [illegible] the weatherman decided to [illegible] plans. So he ordered rain and [illegible] temperatures for tonight and tomorrow with frosts in the east."

To make sure that his plans didn't go astray the storied weather and wonder worker from northern Minnesota. The weather is to be of a mild sort but is expected to carry rain, sleet and snow. Plenty of low flying clouds are expected to make the day anything but glad-some for owners of new Easter togs. A temperature drop of 20 to 25 degrees is expected tonight which will probably bring the mercury down to the freezing point.

High temperature for yesterday was 76 degrees. The low was 51 last night. A year ago the mercury failed to go above 66 and touched the freezing point at night.

With these announcements disappointed males put back in the closet the purple garters, the light tan suit and hat and the snappy suspenders.

Slickers and old felt hats are expected to come into their own Easter Sunday.

SEE COOLIDGE WIELDING VETO AX ON BILLS

Treasury Experts Indicate Deficit If Program Is Enacted

Washington, April 7—The prospect of President Coolidge wielding the veto ax on the legislative program of the Seventieth Congress loomed strongly today as Treasury experts indicated the government would face a huge deficit in 1929 if the whole program is enacted into law.

The president might even reject tax reduction legislation, it was intimated, if Congress exceeded the $201,000,000 limit fixed by the Treasury Department. The pending legislative program in Congress calls for an increase of from $285,000,000 to $325,000,000 in federal appropriations next year, it was pointed out, while the estimated Treasury surplus for 1929 is only $200,000,000.

By this computation, the government would run into a deficit of from $85,000,000 to $125,000,000 in 1929, should the program be enacted. If taxes were reduced in the meantime, the loss of revenue would only increase the deficit.

May Not be Enacted

Smoot, Republican, of Utah, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, predicted the Senate would limit tax reduction to $200,000,000. He added, however, that he anticipated that much of the pending legislative program would never be enacted.

Some of the new appropriations necessary next year, if the pending program is enacted, would include $50,000,000 each for flood relief, the Columbia River Basin, alien property returns, and the St. Lawrence Waterway, $13,000,000 the first year and $50,000,000 the second for the new navy, from $24,000,000 to $41,000,000 to meet reduced postal rates, from $68,000,000 to $90,000,000 for increases in federal salaries.

The Boulder Dam project was not included in this list because its funds probably will be raised by the issuance of bonds. All appropriations, even if made, would be repaid immediately through bond issues, under terms of the bill. A similar provision was written into the $250,000,000 farm relief bill but as finally enacted this measure

EIGHT MEMBERS OF FAMILY FOUND DEAD

Murder Theory Expressed by Officials After Burned Bodies Are Discovered

Cisco, Tex., April 7—The bodies of R. N. Jackson, 40, his wife and six children were burned to death in their farm home, five miles west of here, today. The throat of one of the daughters was slashed and another's skull bashed.

Authorities believe the victims were murdered and the home set afire to hide the crime.

Falling timbers could possibly have crushed the second daughter's skull, authorities stated, but unmistakable evidence of an attack was found in the debris.

The children were Catherine, 12; Gladys, 10; Dorothy Glenn, 8; Jimmy Dillon, 6, and twin babies, aged 11 months.

The blaze started shortly before midnight. The bodies of the children were badly burned. The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson showed no marks of violence.

Feeling was intense as neighbors for miles around gathered.

An inquest was ordered.

BANDIT KILLED, ANOTHER TAKEN AT MT. VERNON

Gun Battle Waged Between Railroad Detectives and Holdup Men

Mt. Vernon, April 7 — One bandit was killed, another was wounded and arrested, and a third escaped here early this morning, during a gun battle with railroad detectives and sheriff's deputies in the Pennsylvania Railroad yards.

The men, according to Sheriff Scream, of Knox County, had made an unsuccessful attempt to rob a restaurant at Columbus, and fled when the proprietor produced a pistol.

Railroad dispatchers saw the men board an empty freight car and reported seeing the robbers as the freight passed through Conditt and Centerburg.

When the train pulled into Mt. Vernon railroad detectives and sheriff's deputies searched the train, and discovered the men in an empty car.

Attempt To Flee

The men attempted to flee and several shots were fired into the ground by the detectives and deputies. One of the men then fired upon the officers. In a return volley, a man believed to be Ward W. Johnson, 22, of Pittsfield, Warren County, Pa., was killed. His companion who registered as Ed. Ward, 19, Pittsfield, was shot in the hip. A third man, believed to have been their companion, escaped. Ward was later identified, police said, as Ralph Rickardson, 22, of Pittsfield, Pa.

Three other men on the train are held in jail, but it is believed they were but train riders.

The identification of the slain man was made from an automobile registration card found in a pocket.

Columbus, April 7—The three bandits apprehended at Mt. Vernon early today, attempted to hold up L. P. Carmoni in his restaurant here last night, according to police, but were foiled when Carmoni's wife phoned police as the men ordered her husband to hold up his hands.

The men fled toward the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks and were seen to board a freight train bound for Mt. Vernon.

EASTER MENU TO BE REASONABLE IN COST

Eggs Quoted as Low as 24 Cents by Local Markets

Those who include special dinner and luncheon plans in their Easter observance will have the opportunity of arranging an attractive menu at reasonable cost, according to information coming today from Marion markets.

All local stores carried extensive stocks of fruits and vegetables, providing a wide variety for selection. Louisiana strawberries, selling at 50 cents a quart, were among the offerings.

Eggs, always regarded as an essential in an Easter menu, were on the market at prices ranging from 24 cents to 33 cents a dozen. The top price was for the best grades.

There was an ample supply of eggs, although not as large as last year, when the best grade sold at 25 cents a dozen.

The price this year increased slightly with arrival of the pre-Easter demand, but not enough to handicap housewives planning their dinner program for the day. Eggs have been selling at near the Easter figure for several weeks.

LABOR LEADERS BLAMED FOR BOMBING OF NURSERY

Chicago, April 7—Another bomb, the forty-seventh since the first of the year —exploded here today on the roof of a one-story nursery building.

The proprietor, Henry Bonnevier, blamed the blast upon labor leaders who became disgruntled when he refused to accede to their demands. No one was injured.

MOTHER BRAVES FLAMES AND SMOKE TO SAVE BABE

The house was set afire by explosion of a chicken brooder in the garage immediately adjacent to her home.

DAYTON MAN IS SUCCESSOR TO EARL D. BLOOM

William G. Pickrel Appointed Lieutenant Governor by Vic Donahey

PLANS TO RUN IN FALL

Appointee is Attorney and Trustee of Miami University for 10 Years

Columbus, April 7—Appointment by Gov. Vic Donahey of Attorney William G. Pickrel, Dayton Democrat, as lieutenant governor of Ohio was announced today at the governor's office.

The appointment, it was stated, is effective April 16 when Lieut. Gov. Earl D. Bloom, Bowling Green, succeeds Attorney Cyrus Locher, Cleveland, both Democrats, as state director of commerce. Locher was recently chosen by the governor to succeed the late U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis in the United States Senate.

Pickrel's appointment is for the term ending on the first Monday of next year. Pickrel, it was said, will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor at the August primaries.

Commenting upon the published report that the governor was expected to select Attorney Charles B. Zimmerman, Springfield, as lieutenant governor, intimate advisers of the governor declared today that they were informed Zimmerman stated he would not be a candidate for the lieutenant governor nomination. The governor, they said, did not offer the position to Zimmerman.

Is Dayton Attorney

Attorney Pickrel is 40 years old. He is a member of the Dayton law firm of Burkhart, Pickrel & Heald. Born at Jackson, he was educated in the Jackson public schools and graduated from Miami University and the Cincinnati Law School. He has been a trustee of Miami University for 10 years.

He was a Democratic candidate for Congress in the Third Ohio District in 1920, is a director of the Dayton Chamber of Commerce and the Dayton Automobile Club, and recently was chairman of the Dayton Community Fund drive.

Pickrel is married and has three children.

THOUSANDS JOIN IN TRIBUTE TO DEPEW

Rich and Poor Mingle in Vast Throng at Funeral Services

New York, April 7—Reverent tributes was paid today to Chauncey M. Depew by thousands of people, of all walks of life, as the body of the beloved arch-optimist and philosopher of kindliness was borne froom his home to St. Thomas' church, on Fifth-av, where funeral services were held, and thence to its last resting place, his boyhood home in Peekskill.

Respectful, silent crowds surged about the Depew home, their numbers becoming so great that the resources of the corion of motorcycle policemen were taxed to the utmost. In the great throng were the rich and the poor, those who knew Chauncey Depew and those who did not.

Crowd Is Reverent

As the body of the famous statesman, empire builder and philosopher was slowly carried down the steps of his home on West Fifty-Seventh-st, the milling and urging in the streets ceased and over the great throng that had congregated there came a silence that spoke eloquently of the feelings that were in the hearts of the people.

At the church, just around the corner, the funeral service had the quality of a national tribute. In the church were men and women who had known the great American patriarch intimately. Nation, state, city were represented in the several hundred persons present in the church—statesman, bankers, industrialists, or just plain citizens.

CARMI THOMPSON TAKES EXCEPTION TO REPORT

Columbus, April 7—"I want it distinctly understood that I am considering nothing but my present job and to do that job well before giving consideration to anything else," declared Col. Carmi A. Thompson, Cleveland, chairman of the Willis delegates committee, today. Thompson took serious exception to published reports that he would be a candidate, at the August primaries, for the Republican senatorial nomination to succeed the late U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis.

THIRD HONEYMOON

Stillmans Going to Paris To Meet Bud and Lena

New York, April 7—Mr. and Mrs. James Stillman were aboard the Olympic today, bound for Paris on their third honeymoon. In the French capital they will meet their son "Bud" and his Canadian bride, to whom he was married last year at the Stillman estate in Grand Anse.

What was termed the "second Stillman honeymoon" occurred two years ago, following their reconciliation after a six years' court battle for a divorce.

British Overwhelm Henry Ford With Invitations to Attend Social Affairs

LONDON, April 7—Henry Ford, who came to England for a three weeks' visit that will combine business and pleasure, was overwhelmed today with invitations to attend public and private social affairs and to meet men of distinction in every walk of life. He wishes to live quietly while in England and will decline most of the invitations. It is understood, however, that he will meet Premier Stanley Baldwin and possibly the Prince of Wales.

Mr. Ford declared that business conditions in the United States are excellent. He declared that the only idle men are "those who don't want to work."

"I have heard that there are breadlines in our large cities, but I will guarantee there is not one," declared the famous motor car maker.

This was Mr. Ford's first visit to England in 12 years. He was amused at the efforts of the English reporters to obtain interviews and statements upon every possible topic. They were especially anxious to get Mr. Ford's opinion upon the steady decline in the price of crude rubber following the announcement by Premier Baldwin that the British government's restrictions upon rubber production in Malaya and Ceylon would be discontinued on Nov. 1.

Mr. Ford was asked if he would take advantage of the prevailing low prices to buy up quantities of rubber for future delivery to his plants but he refused to say. He was asked also if he might abandon his own project for establishing rubber plantations in Brazil, now that he can buy rubber so cheaply in the open market, but again he was silent.

Mr. Ford refused to make any political predictions but said he was a supporter of Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

British newspapers are giving much space to Mr. Ford and his activities. They dwelt at length upon his dancing on board the liner Majestic. However, the motor magnate did not dance much and then only upon one evening. He had the ship's band play some old time waltzes while he and Mrs. Ford danced a waltz and a polka.

"Jesus Lives, Hallelujah"

A SERMONETTE
BY REV. J. W. SCHILLINGER,
Pastor, Emanuel's Lutheran Church.

"THE Lord is risen indeed." The women, coming to the grave on Sunday morning, found it empty. The angel met them with the words: "Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified. He is risen; He is not here." Soon Jesus Himself appeared to Mary Magdalene, then to the company of women, then to Peter, then to two disciples on the way to Emmaus, and finally that evening to the entire body of disciples in Jerusalem. He showed them His hands and feet, and the mark of the spear in His side. He said, "Handle me, and see, a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have." He ate and drank in their presence. He remained with them 40 days, and showed Himself alive by many infallible proofs.

This is the miracle of all miracles. Miracles are proofs. Here is the proof of the entire ministry of Jesus. Here is the stamp of divine approval to everything that Jesus ever said or did. Here is the proof that He truly is the Son of God and the Savior of the world. Here is the victory over all doubt and unbelief. In the presence of the risen Christ, doubting Thomas must fall down and cry, "My Lord, and my God."

Here is the victory over all sin. Christ paid the debt of sin when He died on the cross. God the Father, by raising Him from the dead, declared that He accepted the payment. Sin is atoned; we are justified before God.

Here is the power for a victorious life. The living and victorious Christ now lives in the hearts of all true believers. It is His own resurrection life that He lives in them. This is the life which is victorious over sin. It is the power of the living Christ that now tramples sin beneath his feet.

Here is victory over death. Death could not hold Christ captive. He has proven Himself the Master over death. He has robbed death of its sting and the grave of its victory. The believer can now peacefully enter the grave, knowing that it is but the door to everlasting life. Dying, he can commend his soul unto God, sure that God will accept it, for it has been redeemed and purged of all sin with the Saviour's blood. And he can joyfully give his body to the grave, knowing that on the last day Christ will call it forth again to a glorious resurrection. There can be no doubt about it, for Christ is the Lord and Master over death. When He commands, the grave must yield up its prey. He says: "Because I live, ye shall live also."

Here is the victory over hell. On the judgment day there shall be no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus. The living, victorious Christ will be there to claim them as His own, and to take them with Him into eternal glory.

"He lives, He lives, who once was dead
He lives, my ever living Head;
He lives to silence all my fears,
He lives to wipe away my tears.
"He lives to bless me with His love,
He lives to plead for me above;
O the sweet joy this sentence gives,
I know that my Redeemer lives."

CLOSING EVENTS

Church To Conclude Attendance Contest and Building Campaign

Harry Wyss will speak at the Sunday School hour Sunday morning at First Reformed Church. At that time the attendance contest between men and women of the church, given in the form of a "seven-the-world tour" will be brought to a close. The wind-up of the [illegible] campaign will also take place at that time.

New members will be received into the church, children baptized at the morning service and morning worship at 10:30 o'clock.

Mood and Fisher, in Charge of Revivals Here, Form Unusual Evangelistic Team

ONE of the most unusual evangelistic teams that ever conducted a revival in Marion is Moody-Fisher duo, made up of a boy 19 years of age and a man three years the senior of his partner's father. A pair, now holding evangelistic meetings at Trinity Baptist Church, are D. L. Moody, Columbus, and Leland C. Fisher of St. Louis.

Mr. Fisher, a deacon, one of the youngest of his profession took up evangelistic work at the age of 16, upon completion of a Bible school course. He was licensed to preach by the state of Missouri at the age of 17, although he had already begun his career as a boy of six. He travels with his father, Charles A. Fisher, pastor of the M. E. Church at Bethel, N. who has spent practically all his years in the ministry and evangelistic work, together with the F. W. Pettigrew party of Columbus. He recently assisted his father in a revival at Salem, Evangelist Church in charge of the [illegible]

Accomplished Musician

As an [illegible] he adds much attractiveness to the revival with his [illegible] both vocal and instrumental. He is an accomplished musician [illegible] the trombone and guitar.

Moody, with whom young Fisher has joined this season and for whom he has conducted the music in some revivals is, quite the contrary, an "old-hand" in the evangelistic work.

Mr. Moody took up the work as a boy of 19 and has since traveled from coast to coast, preaching in a number of the largest churches of all denominations.

Quite fitting is the name by which Moody terms himself, the "minister of music," for in addition to a knowledge of [illegible] he is a singer of pleasing ability, he is a capable organist, pianist, and choir director. He is also talented as a preacher and was instrumental not long ago in the conversion, at a single service, of 80 persons in a Topeka, Kas. church. Young Fisher's record stands at 140 conversions for a night.

Mr. Moody is a relative of Dwight L. Moody, noted evangelist who founded the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. He is a graduate of the Urbana High school class of 1910 of Valparaiso University at Valparaiso, Ind. and of the University of Chicago. Several weeks ago Mr. Moody conducted a revival at Fite Memorial Baptist Church here.

Two other differences characterize the Moody evangelistic team. Mr. Moody is a Baptist, Mr. Fisher a Methodist, and the elder evangelist is married, his partner, single.

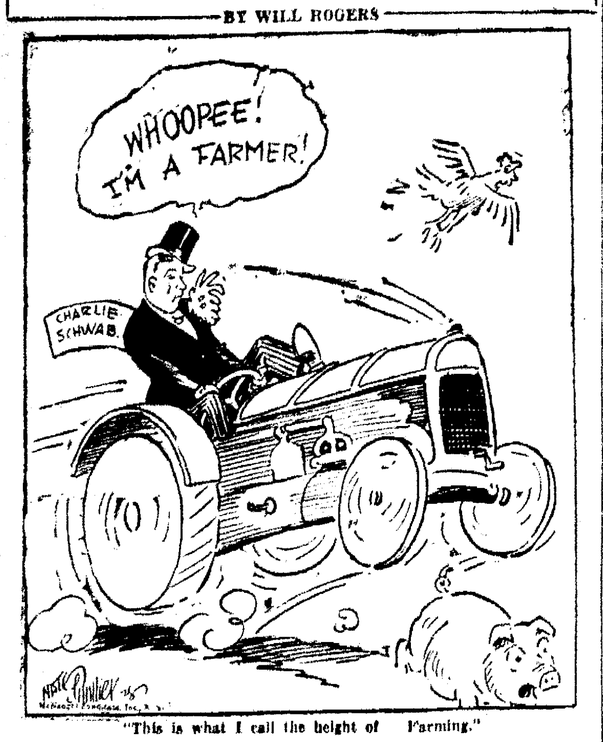
Cal Gets Big Vote

Straw Votes Taken on Tour Puts President in the Running in Spite of His Choosing, According to Rogers

BY WILL ROGERS



"This is what I call the height of Farming."

WELL, all I know is just what little testimony I read in the papers every day. If a man is not testifying about Oil, or Bonds, or votes, why he is testifying about coal, or railroad rates, or Miners wages, or something.

My school for testimony that I wrote you about is gathering recruits every day. Men that had no idea they would be called on a month ago, are now enlisting for short courses in my school.

Who would have thought that Henry Ford would have had to look a Senator in the face and tell him how he could pay a Miner $8.00 a day while these other Coal Operators say the Miner should pay for the privilege of mining the coal, that if he don't they have to operate at a loss. Everybody in the coal business seems to be losing money, you would think they were just giving it away.

Smiles at Miners

Schwab was pretty good on the stand. Of course he had cut his Miners' wages but he was good natured about it. You know you can work for Charley cheaper than you can for anybody else because he is so congenial and nice about it. What he might lack in pay to the miners he makes up in smiles to 'em. Well, they got him on the stand and he really showed up fine.

They couldent get a whole lot of information out of him, but he made it up in jokes. He showed that money and humor could go together. He said he had never made a cent out of his Steel Company. That was one of his jokes.

I have been in his beautiful home on Riverside-dr, New York, and incidentally interrupted a Poker Game that Sunday afternoon I was there. Now he may have been telling the truth when he said he hadent made anything out of the steel Company, but it certainly is a beautiful House. Now it may be possible that he keeps it up on this Poker Game, but I doubt it. The men that I saw in the game that afternoon, some of them whom I knew, dident look to me like they was able to support a place like that.

Schwab Is Farmer

He pulled the best Gag that has been pulled on the witness stand this year. Senator Goodings asked him about farming, saying that he the Senator was a dirt Farmer himself, when Schwab interrupted him by saying "I am also a farmer. I have a picture at home taken of me sitting on a tractor, with an Orchid in the lapel of my coat." Now that was a "Wow." That is what I call the heighth of farming.

I come through Washington, D. C., the other day. Had a long talk out at the Longworths with Bascomb Slemp, who had just leaped head first into the Hoover hopper. I was anxious to find out from him just how much opposition there was to Hoover from the real Politicians. He says "Not as much as you hear there is."

You know I have always thought the real old politician (who's real stock in trade is a Government appointment to something for which he is unfitted) I always figured that he would be kinder leary of Herbert. Herb never was much on appointing him to anything, for Hoover has always been in the habit of appointing men who would be of assistance to him, so these old Boys dident want anything like that happening.

Takes Straw Vote

I take a straw vote every night in every place I play and it gives a pretty good line on who they want. However, that's only the people. Who they want and who they will get is a different thing. I certainly hope none of you readers are so simple-minded as to think that you have anything to do with the nomination of the man that you will eventually vote for.

Cal broke out again a couple of weeks ago with his usual statement. "I dont choose to have my name on the Wyoming ballot." Thats three times he has said exactly the same thing. Now I claim there is a catch in it somewhere or he would say, "Will you please let me alone. I am not and WILL NOT be a Candidate under any circumstances." Did he say that? Not on your life he dident. He is laying by that little word "Chose" like a Republican to a stack of Liberty Bonds.

Cal A Favorite

If you was misunderstood in the press in the morning, and there was doubt as to the meaning of some statement you had issued, why what would you do? You would immediately clarify it wouldent you? Thats what anybody would do. They would say, "I meant so and so." But he will be "Choosing" right up to Kansas City, and I think he will be "Choosing" then. He gets a big vote all over the country every time I ask for a vote on him running. In fact I think he gets bigger than Hoover.

All but in Cleveland. They are not so strong for Cal for some reason or other there. You know LaFollette carried that City last time. They would just like to be sorter radical in Cleveland if they knew how. They are like a young Boy that wants to be devilish but just dont know how to start in.

Will Go to Indiana

Jim Reed is stirring em up all around. I wish they would pass a law that no matter who is elected President that Jim Reed would be the one to make the Public speeches for him. Nothing is so dull as a Presidential speech, and nothing is as exciting as a Jim Reed one. Jim can make the Republicans pretty near as corrupt as they are.

I go into Indiana next week, but I certainly dont want to be taken as one of Senator Robinson's "Birds of a Feather." Another Native Son Candidate out there is Jim Watson. Jim is old enough to know better, and I believe he does at heart. He is just running to get a free ticket into the Convention.

So this week its Coolidge and Hoover for the Rep, and Smith against the field for the honor of running second.

Police Rule to Regulate Traffic at Gas Stations

Motorists who have acquired the habit of using the private drives installed by filling stations at street intersections, to avoid waiting for the changing of a traffic light or in order to save time, are in danger of being deprived of the convenience, according to Chief of Police Thompson, who announced today that steps would be taken to stop the practice.

The drive through the property of a filling station is just as private as the drive through the yard of any citizen, the chief pointed out. The violation of the privacy of the company, however, is not the most serious phase of the practice, the chief said.

Pedestrians in Danger

The most serious side of the question, it was explained by the chief, is the danger to pedestrians. Filling station drives not being considered as public thoroughfares, pedestrians, and especially children, do not watch as closely as when crossing the street, and a large number of serious accidents have been narrowly averted at these spots.

The chief cited a case on Davids-st one evening recently when a pedestrian escaped, by only the fraction of an inch, of being struck by a motorist who shot through a filling station driveway without a warning. It was only by sheer luck that the pedestrian escaped serious injury, if not death.

The owners of filling stations, it is said, are in accord with the police in putting a stop to the practice. In addition to endangering the lives of pedestrians the practice has become a decided nuisance, they say.

COUNCIL STANDS PAT ON RATE ORDINANCE

New Fremont Gas Schedule Not To Be Reconsidered, Is Indication

The new gas rate ordinance recently adopted in the city of Fremont will go into effect as originally planned, it was indicated today in a report that the city council there will stand pat on its action in approving the measure.

Despite agitation for reconsideration of the ordinance, no vote was taken by council at its meeting this week. The ordinance fixes a 10-year contract granting the Logan Gas Co. increased rates.

Grant E. Mouser, Jr., who is acting as special counsel for the city of Marion in the battle being waged by several Ohio communities against rate increases, recently issued a statement assailing the Fremont mayor's reasons for signing the ordinance.

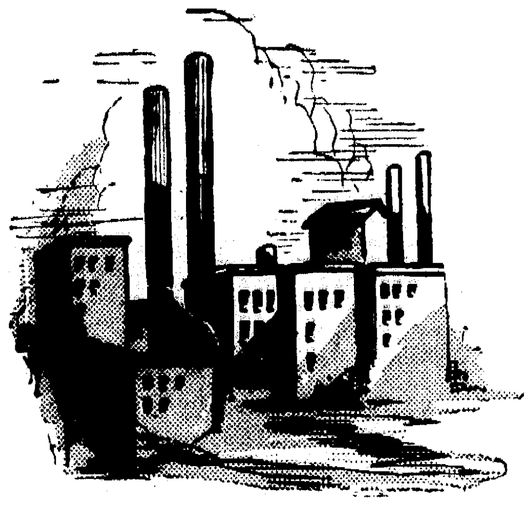
THE FINE CAR OF LOW PRICE

Do You Believe In Fair Play?



Business and times have changed. No longer is it possible for your Gas Company to produce and supply gas to the City of Marion and make money at the present rate.

Your Gas Company has always played fair with Marion. It has laid its cards upon the table and shown exactly why it is necessary to have a more profitable rate.

Each day that the rate question remains unsettled means that Marion is losing. It makes it impossible for Your Gas Company to make extensions, to increase its service, to assure Marion a steady and unfailing supply of gas.

GAS IS worth more!

Politicians have sought to mislead you by bickering before the City Council and Public Utilities Commission.

The average gas rate for the United States is $1.22 per thousand cubic feet. The Gas Company asks only $1.00 for the first 500 cubic feet, or any part thereof, and 60c net per thousand cubic feet thereafter. Forty-six cities and towns served by the Company are paying such a rate

Now is the time for the people of Marion to show their sense of justice and fair play. The gas rate must be taken out of politics and recognized for what it is—a business proposition.

Your City Council is anxious to do what you want done. All they want is public support. For more than three years politicians have been holding Marion back—making it impossible to settle the gas rate on a fair basis

Your Gas Company comes to you. It asks you for the sake of the future of your city to assert your rights as a voter and taxpayer and settle the gas rate for years to come.

COURT NEWS

License Bureau Busy

Seasonal effect on business in the marriage license bureau of Probate Court was recorded today as four couples applied for licenses shortly before the office closed at noon.

The following secured licenses to become Easter brides and bridegrooms.

William B. Moore and Margaret M. Irvin, John R. Fuller and Blanche Stone, and Earl E. Sawyer and Jeanette H. Cook, and Lloyd H. Willauer and Ada Belle Lamb.

Seeks Divorce

A petition in which Isabel Helen Sherman seeks divorce from her husband, James W. Sherman, on grounds of gross neglect and extreme cruelty, has been filed in Common Pleas Court. The plaintiff also seeks the restoration of her maiden name of Kirby. The couple were married in Logansport, Ind., May 9, 1904. There are no children.

Answer in Oil Suit

The Buckeye Supply Co. of Logan, has filed an answer in Common Pleas Court seeking to have set aside the temporary restraining order granted Frank G. Ulsh which prevents the supply company from removing equipment from Marion County's only oil field. The field is located near Caledonia and the recent answer filed is another step in the long chain of court proceedings through which the owners have gone. Two wells comprise the field.

Answer is Filed

The Central Acceptance Corporation has filed an answer and cross petition, setting up its claim of $139.71 due on a judgment returned in the Morrow County against Floyd V. Ward and others. The answer and cross petition was filed in the case of J. W. Jacoby against Ward in which the plaintiff seeks to collect $1,808.15 due on a mortgage deed.

Divorce is Sought

Charging gross neglect and extreme cruelty, Mildred Gassaway has filed petition in Common Pleas Court for divorce from Jesse Galloway. The plaintiff also wants custory of their four-year-old daughter. The couple were married Nov. 4, 1922.

ONE-DAY MARRIAGES ARE HIT BY SOVIET

Worst Evil of Lax Matrimonial Laws Revealed by Announcement

Moscow, April 7—One day "companionate marriages" have come under the ban as one of the worst evils of the lax Soviet marriage laws.

In a decree to the public prosecutors the supreme court today demands that men who lead brides to the marriage license bureau altars "with the premeditated intention of divorcing them in a few days" are to be arrested. Conviction will carry a penalty of from one to eight years. The decree is effective this month.

The string of girl victims of "marital fiends" has admittedly become too long and pitiful. There are cases on record where girls 24 years old have been married and divorced five or six times. The divorce in ach instance was obtained by the husband without the wife's knowledge or consent.

A divorce decree costs only 15 cents. A husband merely has to go before the regular official and proclaim his intention of divorcing his wife and he is given a legal decree.

The supreme court ruling contains a loophole. Prosecutors declare it will be difficult to prove whether a man actually premeditated divorce at the time of the wedding. The law specifies nothing concerning the time which must elapse between the issuance of a marriage license and a divorce decree.

SAYS HOOVER CANNOT BEAT GOV. AL SMITH

New Attack Is Launched on Secretary's Candidacy from Within G. O. P.

Washington, April 7 — Herbert Hoover's political opponents opened up a new line of attack upon his presidential candidacy today. They asserted that if nominated he cannot defeat Gov. Al Smith.

Assuming that Smith will be the Democratic nominee, Rep. L. J. Dickinson, Republican, of Iowa, leader of the farm bloc in the House, came out with a bold forecast analysis of Smith's strength against Hoover and Smith's strength against Lowden in the electoral college. Dickinson is supporting Lowden.

His conclusion was that Smith would carry New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Mexico against either Hoover or Lowden—a remarkable concession for any regular Republican to make, even in the heat of a pre-convention struggle.

Another of Dickinson's conclusions was scarcely less remarkable. He predicted that against Hoover in November, Smith may well carry Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, Oklahoma and South Dakota, but that Lowden could carry all these states against Smith.

Summing up, the Iowan declared that a Smith-Hoover contest would send the New York Governor into the White House with a 327-204 victory in the electoral college, but that a Smith-Lowden contest would virtually be the reverse, Lowden winning in the college by a vote of 322 to 309.

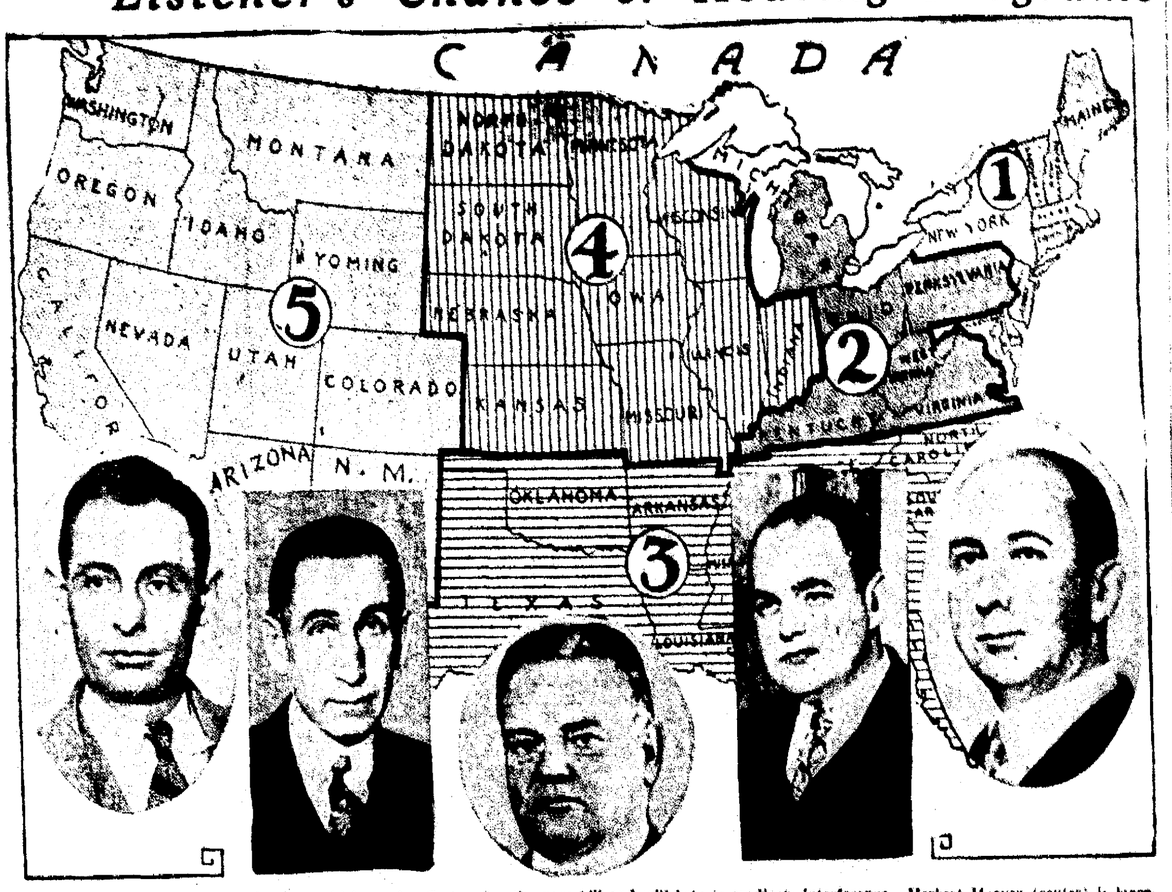
WAR DEPARTMENT TO USE RADIO FOR DAILY ORDERS

Washington, April 7—The War Department will henceforth send its daily special orders by radio to all corps area headquarters, where they will be made available through the local intelligence offices to the press.

The new plan becomes effective April 15. Special orders have heretofore been published in Washington only and mailed later to corps commanders.

Easter pot flowers at Tender's.—Adv.

Government Regulations Greatly Improve Listener's Chance of Hearing Programs



Map shows the allocation of radio zones which are in effect under the new bill and will help to eradicate interference. Herbert Hoover (center) is largely responsible for these arrangements. Commissioners Pickard, Sykes, La Fount and Caldwell will see that the regulations are carried out.

Listen and you shall hear good news.

Allocations of radio zones will clear the air for you. Secretary Hoover is working out a plan of dividing the air and parceling it out in zones as long as there is enough to go around.

No longer will Woofus interfere with Whoosis when you are getting a slick program 100 miles from home.

The radio commission, which has been given a new lease on life through the new bill, will have absolute charge of all stations and keep them on their wave length and within their power allowance.

Radio has become an important item in the home lives and the business of the country—too important to let a few grab off the cream. Therefore all these regulations will benefit the radio user.

It is the idea of Mr. Hoover and the commission to keep improving the air. They may even be able to take out some of the static if they keep at it long enough.

But, be that as it may, perhaps the commission will carry their efforts a few steps further and regulate some of the awful programs which are on the air.

Some of the near-tenors who yelp their love airs through the mike could be provided with mufflers.

So, more power to regulation of radio broadcasting. Anything which improves it should be supported.

1,200 Attend Good Friday Union Service Conducted at Presbyterian Church

Three-Hour Program of Devotion Arranged by Ministerial Association Provides Impressive Observance

About 1,200 persons attended the union Good Friday service between 12 and 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at First Presbyterian Church. There was fair attendance at the opening of the service, with a gradual increase until at the close the auditorium was filled to capacity. Numerous persons were present for a part of the service during the three hours.

The service was arranged by the Marion County Ministerial Association, under direction of Rev. Earl L. Holliday, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church, for all Protestant churchmen of the city.

Service at St. Paul's

A three-hour devotional service was conducted at the same time at St. Paul's Episcopl Church by Rev. Paul Due, rector of St. James Parish, Bucyrus, who preached a short sermon on the seven last words of Christ. The Episcopal service was also well-attended. Rev. S. S. Hardy, local rector, conducted a similar service at St. James church, Bucyrus.

A good Friday service, preparatory to Easter communion, was held last night at First Reformed Church. The pastor, Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller, preached on the subject, "The Eclipse on God's Face." Other Holy Week services here last night were at Wesley M. E., Greenwood Evangelical, St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Churches and the Church of Brethren.

Features of the union service were the sermonettes by Rev. E. Radebaugh, pastor of Calvary Evangelical Church, Rev. John A. Carriker, pastor of Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Lester J. Houghtaling, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church. Reverend Radebaugh talked on "The Miraculous Earthquake", Reverend Carriker on "The Miraculous Darkness" and Reverend Houghtaling on "The Rending of the Veil." A communion service was conducted by Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor, and Rev. James M. Fisher, pastor, of Lee Street Presbyterian Church assisted by the other ministers.

Theme of Service

"The Miracles of Calvary" was the theme of the service, over which Rev. George E. Groves, president of the association and pastor of Central Christian Church, presided. Music was furnished by D. L. Moody, Columbaus, and Leland C. Fisher, St. Louis, evangelists at Trinity Baptist Church, Rev. James Campbell, pastor of Salem Evangelical Church, south of the city, and Mrs. Harry T. Williams, organist at the First Church. Other pastors assisting were Rev. G. A. Whitlock, pastor of Wesley, E. E. Church, Rev. W. H. Howard, pastor of First United Brethren Church, and Rev. G. E. Waddle, pastor of the First Church of Nazarene.

KENT WOMAN SLAIN, HUSBAND BEING HELD

Police Say Victim Was Beaten to Death, Probably with Ax

Kent, April 7—Mrs. Josephine Madison, 48, is dead here today and William Madison, 50, her husband, was being held in city jail pending an investigation.

Police say the woman had been beaten to death. An ax, found in the cellar, is believed to have been used by the slayer.

Madison, an Erie Railroad yardman, admitted quarreling with his wife about 11 o'clock last night, but denied all knowledge of the killing, police said.

The couple had serious domestic trouble about two years ago, police declared.

VETS' ORGANIZATION TO BOOST AVIATION MOVE

Kansas City, Kansas — Tentative plans for a nationwide movement to support the development of aviation along national defense and commercial lines have been adopted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., it was announced at national headquarters here.

Upon recommendation of the 1927 national encampment, the national council of administration has voted to make this phase of peace time service one of the important features in the program of every state department. The council recommended appointment of a national committee on aeronautics which body will create and supervise state and national campaigns for the development of interest in aviation.

LIVES ENDANGERED, SKATERS IN STREETS

Mt. Vernon-av and Vernon Heights-blvd Intersection One of Danger Spots

While the mounting toll of traffic casualties causes concern here and in other cities and "Be Careful Weeks" and "Safety Clubs" are springing up, one of the most dangerous practices yet found was revealed in Marion last night.

At the intersection of Mt. Vernon-av and Vernon Heights-blvd youthful skaters of grade and high school age have taken to the wide, paved streets by the score.

A check at this intersection last night showed practically little heed being paid by the skaters to motorists while the practice of "hooking a ride" by hanging onto the spare tires of automobiles grew in enthusiasm as the evening sped by. Traffic at this point is considered very heavy.

Complaints of children skating on the streets in Mt. Vernon-av and E. Church-st and in other parts of the city also have been heard from motorists.

Delaware, April 7—That the late U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis had no intuition that death was imminent was indicated today when it became known that he left no will.

THREE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES FOR BILL

Walsh Only Senator in Race To Oppose McNary-Haugen Measure

Washington, April 7—The Senate's battalion of presidential candidates stood divided—four to one—today over the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

The four candidates favoring the measure were all Republicans—Senators Charles Curtis, of Kansas, James E. Watson, of Indiana, George W. Norris, of Nebraska and Guy D. Goff, of West Virginia. The lone candidate opposing it was a Democrat, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana.

Walsh shattered the unanimous presidential candidatorial approval of the bill. He criticized the equalization fee feature of the bill as unconstitutional and based his opposition on this ground. He told the Senate the fee could not be collected and the bill could not be enforced.

ROBERT BURNS LETTER GIVES LIGHT ON POET

London — A remarkable letter of Robert Burns, that is shortly to be sold at Sotheby's, reveals the fact that at one time an offer was made to induce the poet to come to London and take up newspaper work.

The letter is addressed to Mr. Peter Miller, who had told his friend Mr. Perry, then proprietor of the Morning Chronicle (1794) of Burns' impecunious condition.

Between them they settled on a plan for bringing the poet up to Fleet Street. Mr. Perry, it is recorded, very spiritedly made Burns an offer of an annual stipend for his services on the paper, but the offer was refused.

may call for outright federal appropriations. If it does it would add $250,000,000 to the new appropriations in 1929 and triple the potential deficit if the remainder of the program were enacted.

Will Use Veto Power

Under these circumstances, it was said, the country can expect President Coolidge to use his veto power frequently between now and the adjournment of Congress, should Congress enact its program. Thus far, the president has approved the Boulder Dam bill, relieving it from the veto threat.

He approved a new public building bill and its appropriations for 1929 were included in the Treasury estimates.

The executive, however, has indicated his opposition to both the flood control bill, in its present form, and to the farm relief bill, as pending. He has not yet indicated his attitude toward the salary increase for federal employes, the postal rate reduction, the Columbia River project nor the St. Lawrence waterway bills. All may get the axe.

FIRST N. Y. WOMAN OFFICIAL PLANS CASE

Former Secretary of State Charged with Misadministration of Funds

Albany, N. Y., April 7—The defense which Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former Secretary of State, will make when she goes on trial on the indictments growing out of her administration of the $1,200,000 census fund of 1925, was being mapped out here today.

Indications are that the first woman ever elected to high office in this state will be placed on trial Monday, April 30, at a special term of the Supreme Court.

The date of the trial will be announced next Wednesday morning by Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan of Brooklyn, designated by Governor Smith to preside over the special term.

The Albany County Court House in which Mrs. Knapp will be tried is only a short distance from the state capitol where she resigned for two years as Secretary of State.

POLICE AID SEARCH FOR MISSING MAN

Get Report of Ralph Secrist's Disappearance from Home

Local police have been asked to assist in a search for Ralph Secrist, 42, who has been missing since Thursday from his home in the Marlyn Apartments on Blaine-av. Secrist is married and his occupation is given as laborer.

Neither his relatives nor police have been able to find any trace of Secrist, it was reported today.

He is described as about five feet, eight inches tall and his weight is given at between 175 and 180.

Secrist's lips are badly cut and bruised from injuries received in a fall recently, according to the description given police. He is reported to be afflicted with nervousness which occasionally result in fainting spells.

An apology usually leaves a scar on both sides; but it is better than an open wound.

Cyrus Locher Named.

Cyrus Locher, of Cleveland, present Ohio state director of commerce, has been named by Governor Donahey to succeed the late Frank B. Willis as United States senator from Ohio and serve until a successor is chosen by popular vote at the November election to fill out the unexpired term of the late senator.

It is said of the new senator designate that, during the five years he has served as commerce director, he has been one of Governor Donahey's closest political friends. He is credited with having run his department with the highest credit to himself and in a manner which has brought out commendation from those familiar with its workings.

The new appointee spent his boyhood on a farm in Putnam county, where he was born March 8, 1878. He attended the county high school and later was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan university. He stoked furnaces and mowed lawns to aid him in getting an education. He became superintendent of schools at Woodsfield in 1903 and two years later entered Western Reserve university law school. In 1906 he was admitted to the Ohio bar. It is something of a coincidence that one of his classmates at the bar examination was the late Senator Willis, whom he has been named to succeed.

Politics attracted Locher two years later. Newton D. Baker, then city solicitor of Cleveland and later secretary of war, named him as assistant solicitor. After a brief retirement to practice law privately he reentered politics and was elected prosecuting attorney of Cuyahoga county. Resuming his private practice in 1917, he remained out of the political arena until six years later, when Governor Donahey appointed him commerce director.

Frankly, there is appeal to us in a record like this. The boy who works his way through college generally turns out to be something of a man, and we haven't a doubt but what this one-time struggler for an education is within the rule. It may be—one never can tell—that he may succeed himself in the senate and prove a man of worth and ability. But there is hardly any question but what many Democrats would have preferred some other man for the place, some outstanding man and citizen of the state, some such man as Newton D. Baker or Atlee Pomerene, some man who not only might prove fit, but whose fitness and ability are generally recognized. Such an appointment could have been in no way marred by the creaking of the wheels of the political machine which Governor Donahey has constructed and of which he is supreme master.

A Splendid Movement.

It is a mighty pleasing to know that the splendid enthusiasm of property-owners which brought about action for the improvement of west Center street is to be duplicated by the property-owners of east Center and Main streets. Already a movement is afoot to secure concrete favor and support for the plan to proceed early next year with the improvement of Main street from the railroads south to Columbia street and the improvement of east Center from Main eastward as far as the members of council may feel funds in sight will justify. The proposed improvement not only contemplates the resurfacing of the two streets through the business section, but also the installation of a lighting system which will be a counterpart of that to be installed on west Center street.

That this newspaper is heartily in favor of the movement goes without the saying. Something like a year ago we went out of our way repeatedly to urge the pressing need of the improvement of west Center street and the streets in the up-town business section in need of improvement. We not only hope that council will recognize the need of the improvement sought and give it priority in the matter of street improvements, but we go further and hope that the owners of properties on State street from the railroads to the postoffice will bestir themselves and get into line with the movement that that thoroughfare may be improved at the same time.

It is a fact generally recognized that the streets in the up-town business section of our city have been subjects of reproach for years. They are in a simply awful condition. They not only give visitors a bad impression of us, but cause us to have a bad impression of ourselves. There isn't a citizen who can drive a car over State street, let us say by way of illustration, from the railroads to the postoffice without feeling that there must be something radically wrong with a city which will remain apparently content with such a street. And what we say of State street will apply to all the streets in the up-town business section excepting Church and Mill.

It must have been apparent to all that there has been a condition closely approaching stagnation in building in our up-town business section in recent years, and this has been particularly true of Main street. It is not our privilege to go into details, but there are marked indications that Main street is soon to experience something of a building boom. Plans already are afoot for a number of structures which will add materially to the appearance of the street and a number of other structures are under contemplation. And this is another reason why the movement looking to the proposed street improvement sought should meet with general favor.

Our city never has suffered and we never want to see it suffer the curse of being a one-street town. We can keep it from becoming such by maintaining its streets in such shape as ot make them attractive to shoppers, both afoot and in cars. There is everything to impel the maintaining of business roadways and business pavements as well in high-class condition at all times. Let us get busy and see to it that they are put in that shape and kept in that condition.

SPRING SONG.

The spring has come and catkins clothe
The whispering willow copse.
The little girls are skipping rope.
The boys are spinning tops.
And by a woodpath steep and stony
I found a lovely anemone

Along the lawn a purple host
Of crocuses is seen.
Already in the sheltered spots
The grass is long and green
And dingleward I go to seek a
Blue violet and the hepatica

A robin flaunts his scarlet style
Upon the window sill.
As bold as robins ever were
And fat enough to kill
But this my heart has captured wholly,
A gold and ebon oriole

The spring has come, I know it has
By this unfailing sign
Kate's cleaning house and all our curtains
Are out upon the line
With wild and unchecked joy I'll model
When I espy the first asphodel

Yes spring is here, and if you must
Be given further proof,
The smell of paint is in the air,
New shingles shine on our roof
And presently, dear trouble, there'll be a
Bright blossom on the stalk.

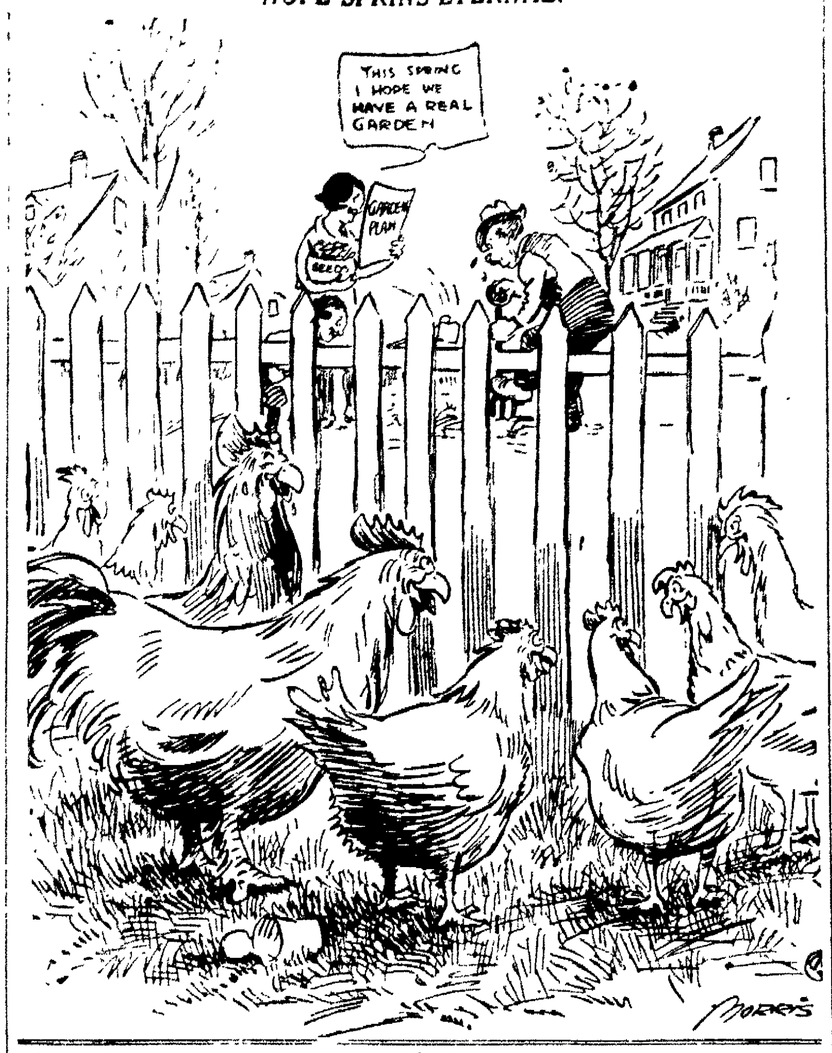
HOPE SPRINS ETERNAL.



Short Rests Keep Up Pep.

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Here is a sensible bit of advice. It comes from Dr. Donald Guthrie:

"A busy man's vacation should be taken in broken doses, a safer plan than a prolonged one taken after exhaustion develops."

That is about as wise a suggestion as I have read in a long time. Why wait till complete exhaustion arrives?

If we could get worn-out men and women to take the needed rest before utter prostration comes, many lives would be saved. It is dreadful to see a man struggle along, striving hard to finish his task, and then falling in his tracks.

I have in mind as I write, a man close to seventy, working at his desk every day, his face haggard, his lips white, all but crushed under his daily task. I talked with him the other day: "Go to Florida for two weeks, lie in the sun, get a lot of needed sleep and come back to take up your work with renewed vigor."

"Can't do it now," he replied. "In June I'll get away for a good long vacation."

What a shame! That man is liable to die in his tracks. Besides, the work he can do in his present state won't amount to much. Two weeks of real rest would permit him to do in the following two weeks ten times as much as he will do in his worn-out condition.

This man should take his vacation in broken doses. A quarter of it now and another quarter some other time, would keep him fresh and fit all the time.

You know I am telling you the gospel truth. You are nodding assent. But what will you do about it? Nothing, absolutely nothing!

You ask then, "Why are you giving all this advice?"

I am doing it so your wife will read what I say. She will grasp the importance of the matter and then, Mister, you'll take that partial vacation right now!

Whenever a man tells me that his wife reads the health advice, I know that he is saying to himself, "I wish these health advocators would get a writer's cramp."

But, come now, why not rearrange that vacation idea of yours? Instead of waiting till next summer's vacation, why not take a week this spring?

If you do, you will get twice as much out of the three weeks you have left for summer. Think it over.

It will do your wife good to have a little vacation too. How about Atlantic City, or if you are country folks, why not go to the city for a week? When were you last in the old home where you were born?

Give yourself a change for health's sake before you break down in complete exhaustion.

Editorial Opinion.

THIS YEAR'S ELECTION IN EUROPE.

The German republic's third parliament, dissolved by President von Hindenburg on Saturday, had many defects, chief among which was its multiplicity of political factions. In its very weakness, however, lay one of its principal merits. Owing to the inability of opposition groups to unite, Germany has enjoyed a much needed spell of consistent, efficient rule under a coalition ministry.

In disbanding the reichstag, the government had no fear for its own existence. Its concern was to save time and money by cutting short a session from which the country could expect no further useful legislation. There was no lack of fine plans, including one for comprehensive educational reform; but the lawmakers treated all proposals as politics, so that every discussion inevitably ended in a deadlock.

The elections for a new reichstag, to be held on May 20, are expected to bring about some far-reaching changes in the existing governmental coalition. There are those in Germany who predict that the outcome will be an altogether new combine, embracing the Centrists, Democrats and Socialists, to the exclusion of the Nationalist elements.

Whatever the verdict, ten years of republican government have taught the people of Germany a number of lessons. They have learned, among other things, that cooperation and friendship with the rest of Europe yield better results in material prosperity than did the earlier attitude of sullenness and protest. For this reason it is to be assumed that the German democracy will be careful to do nothing which might interrupt either the conciliatory foreign policies of Dr. Stresemann or the domestic arrangements which have put the country on a sound financial footing and have transformed the bitter fruits of defeat into the beginnings of industrial expansion surpassing anything achieved anywhere on the continent, even among the victorious nations.

It is this spirit of popular restraint on which civilized Europe must count in its efforts at stabilization. The coming elections in France will likewise be a test of the political maturity of voters. Nearly everywhere in Europe the work of reconstruction has been started; but nowhere has it progressed to a point where the electorate could kick over the traces with impunity. With general elections due this year, not only in France and Germany, but in several other of the continental countries, the world will have an opportunity to see whether Europe has finally settled down to continuous labor in the interests of reconstruction.—Detroit Free Press.

MR. BAKER STATES IT FAIRLY.

Newton D. Baker is not one of those Democrats who find fault for partisan purposes with everything a Republican administration does.

Addressing an inter-collegiate parley in Connecticut, the secretary of war during the Wilson administration said:

"There is a great deal to be said for the United States' activity in the Americas. I do not believe the fact of intervention in Hayti or Nicaragua is to be analyzed, but rather the circumstances. By common consent when intervention to prevent banditry is necessary, the United States in concert with other nations would be justified in acting as friendly international policemen. In that way, we would not run into the accusation of being imperialistic. If we can free ourselves of the suspicion that we are protecting interests of mahogany or oil, we can justify our positions."

That is a fair, analytical, logical statement, with no bombast about it. Mr. Baker is on common ground with President Coolidge in assenting to the principle of intervention to prevent banditry.

The United States is not sending marines to Nicaragua primarily to kill or capture Sandino or his soldiers. Only such force is used as may be necessary to restore and preserve peace. When that is accomplished the forces of the United States will be withdrawn from Nicaragua as they were withdrawn from Cuba and other Caribbean countries when intervention became necessary in the interest of peaceful and orderly home rule.—Toledo Blade.

The Story of Scorpio.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The constellation Scorpion—the name spelling "Scorpio" is an abomination—crawling with its old two-pointed sting, across the middle of the southern horizon on warm moonless evening during mid-summer, is a sight never to be forgotten. In form it is one of the most striking of the constellations, and except the great Dipper there is none more closely resembling the object whose name it bears. It looks its name, and its great red heart-star Antares seems glowing with fierce anger, the reddest star in the heavens—and possibly the biggest in the universe, with a diameter of four hundred million miles.

In May when Scorpio rises in the east, Orion sinks in the west. There is an ancient romance of gods and of gods connected with that Arator was the chronicler of all these undying legends. Of it he tells how bold Orion laid hands upon Artemis—Diana.—

"... when in Scio
With mighty club he chased the monsters of the forest
She, dashing from the island's central mountain range,
From the yawning gulf sent against him far other monster,
The Scorpion, who him struck and slew, gigantic though he stood,
Foe more gigantic, because he outraged Artemis divine
And therefore, say they, still when the horizon shows
The Scorpion, Orion o'er the western rim retreats."

The astrologers have given a bad reputation to Scorpio. They considered it a sign accursed (it is one of the members of the zodiac circle). It was the "house" of Mars, and some said Mars, the god of war, was born in that sign. The name of its chief star, Antares, is supposed to signify "rival of Mars." Both are of a similar red color.

Telescopists have one of the finest colored double gems of the sky in Antares. A four or five-inch glass, in steady air, shows an emerald green star hiding in the burning rays of its great red companion. Antares is recognizable at once not only by its brilliance and color, but by the presence of two smaller stars on either side, making a striking triple set, which recalls the appearance of Altair with its two similar attendants, seen in the middle of the eastern sky when Scorpio is on the meridian. The head of Scorpio is conspicuously marked by three stars in a bending row roughly at right angles to that formed by Antares and its companions. The curved body of the imaginary animal bends down toward the southern horizon, and rises further east like a recurved tail tipped with two stars quite close together. This is the "sting" with which the Scorpion avenged Artemis by slaying Orion.

The broad constellation directly above Scorpio, with conspicuous stars arranged in large rows and in pair, is Ophiuchus. But blended with Ophiuchus is another constellation, Serpens, the latter as drawn by Albrecht Durer in Flamsteed's star atlas, being represented as embracing with its large coils the arms and body of Ophiuchus, who has for a supplementary name that of the "Serpent Bearer."

All this, remember, is very ancient—a starry scroll from the imagination of the men of thousands of years ago, men who long antedated even Homer, and who could no more have dreamed of the future coming of Alexander or of the founder of Christianity, than we can picture the great heroes and revolutions that are to appear or occur many centuries after our time.

Above, or north of Ophiuchus, again, is the constellation, Hercules, and between that and the pole is a diamond-shaped figure marking the head of Draco, the great serpent who rings the North Star with his coils. Just east of Hercules scintillates the brilliant blue-white Vega, while farther away from him on the western side are the Great Dipper and the glowing star Arcturus, which always recalls patient Job and his uncomforting friends casting up dust in the desert.—Copyright, 1928, International Features Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, April 7.—Manhattan is frequently ridded by newspaper letter writers who are snippy store clerks and there are some who approach the job with utter boredom and supreme impertinence. It is, of course, a painful task to say: "Politeness pays," but a great truths are platitudes.

Happily, the impolite clerk is the minority, for the simple reason the majority have found politeness does pay and often quite handsomely. There are so many shining examples of the value of courtesy it is a wonder more do not adopt it.

A bright young man at a railroad station news stand was not on the job more than six months before his unfailing tact made impression. Among his hurrying customers was a manufacturing executive. He paid for the young man's stenographic training and made him his secretary at $5,000 a year.

A young girl from Switzerland made herself so valuable at the stocking counter of a Fifth avenue department store she was taken into the buying department and now makes three trips to Europe yearly with all expenses paid and a salary of $18,000 annually.

A department sore manager tells me most promotions are the result of gratuitous compliments spoken or written in by customers. Attention is called to their alertness, they are watched and a bigger job is the natural result.

Few enter a clerkship to remain in that post, and almost invariably it is politeness that releases them for bigger things. It is often not with the firm by which they are employed but with other employers who come in contact with them and make better offers.

A New York merchant prince once said: "There is nothing humble about a clerkship. It excels any other job I know in giving a man or woman a chance to express worth and personality. I have watched thousands, and a good clerk never remains a clerk long.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

One hears a great deal of nonsense about vacations. It is true that the human body and the human mind need some absolute rest and relaxation. Mostly the mind and body need merely change of employment. Rest from one kind of work can be had by doing another kind of work. And there is plenty to be done. Nobody needs more than a very limited amount of idleness.

* * *

A gasoline and oil dealer, operating a service garage in a certain town, has on his sign his name and the word, "Lubricator." If he is a "lubricator" he is following a very fine and useful occupation. This world needs more of them. There are some folks who simply will not fit into any group easily or smoothly. They are opinionated and determined to see that opinion through to victory. They lack tact and diplomacy. Put a lubricator in the group and the situation is saved and at least made tolerable. Even the truth should not be spoken at all times. Silence is frequently more desirable.

* * *

It is well for us to take stock of ourselves now and then and discover the matters that we are at least a little crazy about. You see, we are all doubtless a little off balance, all a little crazy. Royal Munger, writing in the Chicago Daily News, says:

"Almost every one is at least a little bit crazy, if we accept the term as meaning a perceptible deviation from normal. Some people hate cats, and others get hay fever if they see a picture of a wheat field. Jones is cross all day if his wife unfolds and musses the morning newspaper before he does. Smith can stand most kinds of trouble with a smile, but is likely to insult his best friends if his dinner is delayed half an hour beyond the usual time. Wilkins is reasonable on most subjects, but spend-thrift habits make him frantic and he says he would drive his own son out of doors if he caught him living beyond his means. All these are slight abnormalities, but the only line dividing them from insanity is that the sane have enough common sense to catch themselves when they get beyond the point of ordinarily sensible behavior."

* * *

One might be greatly surprised if he could look in, unobserved, upon the heart of an average, hum-drum, office-working business man. There are so many things in the hearts of the busiest men and women which are undisclosed to the world. No matter who you are, or where you are, you have an inner life into which no one can quite enter. Perhaps that is human nature, or perhaps that is the divine part in every one of us. Says one of America's sweetest poets:

"I fancy he saw something in the clouds above the trees,
Which the gold and glory seeker passes by and never sees.
And I think he gathered something from the woods and running streams,
Which is just as good as money to the owner of many dreams."

Has Missed Her Thus Far.

The father of the most popular eastern college girl in this neighborhood says he thinks his daughter is home for the spring vacation and has been for several days, but he has been too tired to wait up and make sure yet.—Ohio State Journal.

ROAD ASSESSMENTS APPROVED BY BOARDS

Commissioners of Marion and Morrow Counties Act on Improvement

After making one minor alteration the Boards of Commissioners of Marion and Morrow Counties approved and confirmed assessments on the improved road which is to be constructed in the two counties. The road is in Richland Township in Marion County and in Westfield Township in Morrow County. The meeting was held in the offices of the Marion County commissioners.

At a joint meeting of the two boards to be held in Marion at 10 o'clock April 10, the commissioners will authorize the advertising of bids for the road. In the meantime each board will arrange to finance its share of the project.

It is usually somebody else's work that it the grindstone to which one's nose is applied.

Easter
Fish Yarns
Spring

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

TOMORROW'S the day. If you've got some new togs with plenty of "it" and the weatherman turns on the sunshine, he's a good fellow, and if you haven't a new outfit, well you'll be a good enough sport to rejoice from behind your window curtain with the other fellow as he struts his stuff. It's the only day of the year that the Easter rabbit visits the good little children and like a summer Santa Claus leaves them something to make them happy. If you feel like it you can bust your belt dining on hen fruit.

• • •

IF in your journeys recently you have spied two men talking together most earnestly and at great length, and one can hardly wait until the other finishes speaking, there's only one subject on which they are conversing, and that's fishing. A half dozen times in a block one is reminded either by word of mouth or suggestions in display windows that the time is at hand to oil up the old reel, put business cares aside and fare forth to keep company with the wild waves and tame fishes. And all of this means of course that there will be fish stories. If the one I heard today is an inkling of the brand to be issued this leap year you may prepare for most anything. Here it is and you may judge for yourself. A man in this plant who believes in preparedness garnered for himself a flock of night crawlers in anticipation of a leisure hour when he might hie himself over the greensward of some mossy river bank and there entice a nice plump fish from its home. The hour so far had not arrived and fearing the bait might lose some of their curves he gave a junior member of his family the job of pulling some grass and putting it in the pen, or whatever their quarters are called. I happened to overhear the conversation and being curious to know what else they ate made some inquiries. He informed me that they loved coffee-grounds and that he had seen them line up like pigs at a trough when he scattered a line of breakfast food in their pen. He further stated that they wriggled in ecstacy when they heard the back door slam, for that meant that some one was coming with the pan full of dishwater and they would have a chance to splash about and nibble the delectables to be found therein. I didn't wait to hear any more.

• • •

ONE more freeze of the froggies and spring is here to stay. At least that is what one hears from those who make their own weather prognostications. In the parlance of the spring of 1928, it won't be long now, until me will discard the bridge hands for the ukelele and picnic basket and will be digging out the old road map in anticipation of the glad vacation time.

... word had reached the ... had doubled back to Bogus, hence the most sensible thing for him to do would be to double back again toward the Junebug trail—only he would not take the trail but plunge across country through the timber.

The fog lay thick on the San Dimas again; only the highest hills showed above the friendly vapor. Yes, his best chance lay to the north; and without an instant's hesitation he chose that route.

Up over the crest of Bogus he galloped and down through the buckbrush, chaparral,and scrubby timber to the Tantrum Meadows trail that ran along the north slope of Bogus, descending swiftly to the valley below.

For a mile he followed the trail, then swung off it straight down through the timber at a point where the spare undergrowth permitted rapid progress. Across the mile-wide valley that was the lower end of Tantrum Meadows he fled, on up the further slope and into the deep timber.

Here for the first time he pulled up his horse and rested him; while resting, he discarded his rags of clothing and donned the habiliments Uncle Charley had purchased for him. He had everything—shoes, three pairs of socks, two changes of underwear, a suit of brown corduroy, two woolen shirts, a necktie, and the sort of light-gray, soft, broad-brimmed hat usually worn by cattlemen in that country.

Having dressed he adjusted his saddle, mounted and rode leisurely but watchfully toward the north. He knew every foot of that country; for years he had ridden it on the roundup and he had no difficulty avoiding forest-guard and ranger stations.

Early in the afternoon he pulled up in a little patch of park land, hemmed in by tall hills and wholly surrounded by a magnificent growth of sugar and white-pine timber. Here he dismounted, unsaddled and, after picketing his horse with the manzanita, took his rifle and disappeared into the timber.

The booming note of a male grouse reached him presently. With infinite patience he stalked the sound until he located the bird perched on the limb of a madrone tree. Sighting carefully he shot its head off neatly plucked it, cleaned it and returned with it to the little meadow.

About an hour before dark, when the animal heat had already gone from the grouse, he went into the timber and kindled a fire. When he had accumulated a bed of coals he spitted the grouse on a forked willow wand and roasted it. Thus did he sup.

Then he watered his horse, wiped him down vigorously with wisps of dry grass, picketed him again, rolled himself up in the soiled saddle-blanket and, with the saddle for a pillow, turned in and slept soundly until daylight.

He awakened with the acrid odor of wood smoke in his nostrils and a faint roaring sound in his ears; almost instantly a doe and her two fawns almost ran over him in wild fright from some unseen danger.

He rolled out and looked for his horse. The animal was standing close by, ears alert in a listening attitude, red nostrils flung wide to catch that threatening odor of wood smoke. He was trembling and already perspiration had broken out on him.

The man went up to him, soothed him with caresses and endearing words and led him to an adjacent brook to drink.

"No fog this morning, old settler," he assured the timid animal. "What we see is smoke from a forest fire. This little two-acre patch of park land is no safe place for us boys. We've got to get out of here in a hurry and scout this fire. It's to the north of us but what we want to know is, how far east and how far west does it burn, how long has it been burning, and are we apt to run into an army of fire fighters led by some of these confounded rangers if we try to win through? That's our job, Baldy. If we can only ride around the fire we'll leave to somebody else the job of putting it out."

He saddled and rode briskly forward. As he proceeded, the evidence of a panic among the members of the lesser kingdom increased. Deer, several specimens of the large mountain coyote, a brown bear with two yearling cubs, some cattle, and a panther passed him by without bothering to avoid him. Plainly they were too concerned with what lay behind them.

The smoke grew thicker and thicker, and presently little pieces of burning bark and twigs, whirled upward by the roaring draft of the fire and caught in the morning breeze, commenced falling around him.

That was bad. While it was early October, as yet no rains had fallen in the San Dimas, the underbrush was dry and burned with the heat of the summer just passed and Mason realized that around him dozens of little fires would soon start; what was perhaps now but a mile-long line of fire would soon be a 10 miles long and a mile deep.

He had to get out of this and get out quickly. Well, he'd push on to the crest of the next hill in the hope that he would be vouchsafed a glimpse, through some fortunate opening in the timber of the proximity and size of the fire.

His horse stopped. The man urged him forward with a slap, a cluck, and a boot, but was refused obedience; on the contrary the animal turned and insisted upon retracing his steps. Mason fought him, and the horse reared and fought back. He would not go forward.

Bob Mason had some knowledge of the value of compromises; he had discovered that life is mostly that. "Well, Baldy, if you won't go forward, perhaps you'll go to the right or the left," he decided. Baldy accepted the compromise and they pushed ahead at right angles in the direction of the north fork of June-bug Creek. In a hazy way the man knew Junebug lay about five miles ahead of of him, and, while he was far from desirous of venturing in that direction, still he knew that a few miles ahead he would be enabled to climb to the top of Engel's Knob, a granite-topped hill about 900 feet high and quite free of heavy timber.

From Engel's Knob he hoped to get an unobstructed view of the fire and mark its exact location and extent; this accomplished to his satisfaction, he would plan his escape accordingly.

He was not excited, not even apprehensive, for he came of a race of pioneers, men to whom hardship and danger were the very breath of life. Moreover, son of vast horizons that he was, the silent open spaces had bred in him a philosophy not possible for urban dwellers to acquire. Even prison had failed to kill it in him. He was not afraid of life! Whatever life held for him he could accept cheerfully, bravely—even death, which life holds for every living creature.

He knew that one must break eggs if one would have an omelette; he was prepared to take any risk to accomplish his purpose save that of taking human life; hence he rode boldly, making no effort to conceal himself.

He was quite resolved on this—that if he encountered a ranger or deputy sheriff and the latter should call upon him to surrender he would refuse. He would run for it and risk all the bullets they could send after him. Perhaps one of those bullets would be friendly and, as it kissed him, say: "All right, Bob, old settler. You do not have to go back to San Quentin. I'm going to leave you right here at peace in your own country."

He was troubled about the sheriff's horse and rifle, for he was not a thief. He wondered if the sheriff would realize that he had not really stolen either—that he had merely borrowed them. He was aware that the horse was a magnificent animal, gentle, kind, courageous, well trained and with an amount of stamina far beyond that of the ordinary range horse. "Zeke Bentley's bound to realize that if I get clear away I'll send his horse and rifle back to him" he concluded. "Zeke's a sensible man. Why, he's known me, man and boy, for 20 years!"

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

SAD as it may seem, a man does not lose his head over a woman because she possesses all the virtues and talents he admires in a wife, but because she possesses some alluring little trick of smiling out of the corner of her eye or wrinkling her nose or putting a baby-note into her voice.

• • •

He does not pick a wife because she is appropriate—but because she is appealing.

• • •

He does not fall in love with a woman because she is practical and domesticated and can make a dollar go a long way—but because she is feminine and cuddly and amusing—and can make his head go 'round.

• • •

The Big Idea seems to be to pick out something totally contrary to his "Ideal"—and then TAME her!

• • •

No matter what type of woman he may elect to marry, he never has the slightest doubt of his ability to "improve" on Heaven's handiwork.

• • •

"Taming a wife" has been the most popular indoor sport, ever since the first caveman came home with his little stone hatchet and started it. Every man, in his own secret opinion, is a Petruchio—and every woman a Katharine, just spoiling to be tamed! His optimism is SUBLIME!

• • •

He will not hesitate to marry an exotic, glittering Lorelei Lee, and then try to transform her into a purring, adoring, little Alice-sit-by-the-fire.

• • •

He is not fazed for a moment at the prospect of annexing a high-strung, temperamental "Intellectual," and teaching her to concentrate her whole mind on boiling his eggs and keeping buttons on his pajamas.

• • •

Not he! Nothing daunts him! He will blithely wed a Broadway Flapper out of the latest Follies, with the perfect confidence that he can transplant her to Main Street, "break her in" to small town life and make her the leader of the Ladies' Aid Society.

• • •

Even the fact that a woman doesn't love him, never discourages or deters him. He can always "MAKE her" love him!

• • •

To select the kind of wife who would match his tastes, fit into his life, sympathize with his ideas, and make him happy, just "as is," would be TOO easy and unexciting for any man.

• • •

He will make a twenty-mile detour around the girl who appeals to his commonsense, in order to find one who appeals to his imagination—something wild, peppy, capricious or different. Something to "TAME"!

• • •

That is why so many potential fine wives remain "unplucked blossoms on the family tree, while the [illegible] Lees go right on marrying and re-marrying.

• • •

When a man [illegible] partner, he is [illegible] somebody he can [illegible] but when he [illegible] goes out of his [illegible] with

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

Made Takes Precautions

"I DO not doubt that Feler is an adequate protector when he's with you," I told Princess Olina at her request concerning her faithful watchdog. "But dogs have been killed, you know, for just that reason. Will you promise me not to be [illegible] except in daylight, and then only for a little space where you can watch him. Don't let him stray away."

"He is always close to me," she declared proudly. "He sleeps on the floor at the foot of my bed. It was a great sorrow to him, and to me also, when Mama decided that he could not be brought to America on our tour. Georges promised to take care of him, and when he came in search of me, he brought Feler along with the crazy idea that he might be able to trace me with him."

"It wasn't as crazy an idea after all," I commented. "I don't think Prince Georges would have recognized you that day at the Breakhampton station if Feler hadn't made a dash for you."

"Perhaps not," she replied but her tone expressed doubt, and the sudden flush which came to her face told me of her conviction that the young prince would have recognized her anywhere.

"Is there anything you would like to have me do for you before I go?" I asked her.

"No, indeed, but—must you go?" she asked, her fingers clinging childishly to my hand.

"Yes, I really must," I told her, for besides my unreasoning worry over Junior, there were certain precautions for her safety which I meant to insure before nightfall, and it was now late in the afternoon.

"Then, au revoir," she said loosening my hand, but looking up at me so wistfully that I stooped and kissed her, a caress I never dreamed that I should give to the beautiful but arrogant girl whom I had known as Eleanor Lincoln, and who now was revealed as the Princess Olina of Transvania. She returned the kiss warmly, if a trifle awkwardly, and I guessed that she was little used to caresses. Then I left her, stopping on my way out only to ask Mrs. Tiver to see that lights were left burning all over the house. "If Mr. Lincoln questions it," I told her, "tell him there have been burglaries in the neighborhood."

"I understand," she said, her bright eyes looking steadily into mine. "I guess it's owls you're thinking might fly in."

"Perhaps," I told her with a smile intended to make her think she shared a great and responsible secret with me. And then Jim, to whom I previously had telephoned, was at the door, and I was speeding toward the farm.

Lillian met me at the side veranda door, a comprehending, indulgent smile upon her face.

"Junior is safe on the upstairs veranda with Katherine," she said. "You can take a look at him on the way to your room. And gaze at the petticoated Machiavelli before you. I so worked on your mother-in-law's imagination that nothing would do her but a drive to Montauk and Dicky has taken her. It took some work, boy, I'll inform you. So the coast is clear, if, as I guess from your message, there's anything you want to do. Dicky'll be home by dark, for you know his mother doesn't like to stay out late. And I don't imagine there's any danger threatening in daylight that the rest of us can't manage, is there?"

There was something in her tone, or so I imagined, which expressed an incredulity concerning the danger to us of which I had told her in code when I had asked her to keep Junior within sight until I came home.

"Probably there is no danger at all," I said a bit coldly, "but if you don't mind I'm going to ask Katie to keep all the screen doors locked for the rest of the day."

"That's already attended to," she retorted with a little laugh. "I told Katie you'd heard there were gypsies camping near here. That's as good a reason as I could think up on the spur of the moment. And it sure worked. Katie is strictly on the job of guarding Junior. Her kitchen is an arsenal of paring knives, toasting forks and meat cleavers, while I am sure she has four distinct kettles of boiling water for possible invaders. So come upstairs with your fears at rest, and unpack your news reticule."

I laughed at her nonsense as she meant I should, and stopping on my way only for a welcoming hug and kiss from my small son, I went with Lillian to my room where I told her quickly but in minute detail of everything which had happened during my stay at The Larches.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Chatter Box

Well, here's Easter, just around the corner, and the costume just about ready for the stroll down the streets on Sunday morning. There are a few bits yet to be chosen though—just a smart finishing touch here and there to make it perfect.

• • •

One of these is flowers. There's no nicer way of making Easter pleasant for an old friend than a waxen-white lily, or one of these gorgeous tulips I saw at Blakes. And of course you'll want a corsage—they have some lovely sweet peas in colors that blend perfectly with the spring clothes. Telephone 5161 and the very thing you want will be delivered to you.

• • •

I saw a woman downtown today—a really attractive woman, whose whole appearance was just ruined by her hair—dry, lustreless, lifeless. Really there's no reason why it should be like that. The right care of the scalp would remedy it so easily—I'm glad I let an expert care for mine before I got my permanent. There's still time to get a wave before Easter, too. Go to the Stuckert Beauty Parlor in the Harding—you can be sure of good results there.

• • •

And while you're shopping, be sure to stop at Ackerman's to hear the new Easter music. They have so many marvelous records it's almost impossible to name my favorite. Ask them to play some of the sacred music on the beautiful Electrola-Radiola that stands just inside the front door. It's one of those complete combinations of radio and Victrola that plays a whole program without any attention at all.

• • •

For your Easter dinner I would suggest Turoff's—whether you are eating out, or at home. If it's at home, take along a jar of their famous Thousand Island dressing—made over some wonderful secret recipe that seems to give salad a flavor it never had before. And of course you can get a delicious dinner right there, if you like.

• • •

Now that Easter is here it's time to think of porch furniture—you know how much you'll want to use the porch this summer. They have some charming pieces at Lennon's—wicker chairs and gay cushions that will make the hours you spend outdoors delightful. It will pay you to look at them now, while the stock is still complete.

• • •

Of course you can get a whole costume at Uhler-Phillips—but what I was interested in especially this week was a small decoration or two, without which the ensemble just isn't complete.

I found lovely scarfs—the very newest thing in printed chiffons—and a bright gay bit of flower for a coat that gave the whole costume such an air of charm. You'll find both on the first floor.

• • •

The way the styles are now, nothing is more important than a smart, well-fitting pair of shoes. Even if your feet are inclined to weaken, now and then, like mine, you can have smart, comfortable shoes to wear, if you know where to get it. NEWS OF MOVIES IN CINEMA CAPITAL

Film, "Cat and Canary"

BY LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Star Staff Correspondent

Los Angeles, April 7.—"The Cat and the Canary" was easily Universal's most profitable picture last year. I mean in cold dollars and cents.

So well was this mystery melodrama received that every one in the Universal organization has been frantically searching for a worthy successor. They seem to believe they have found it in "The Cat's Paw," written as a sequel to "The Cat and the Canary."

Laura La Plante, who lent her blond beauty to the first melodrama, will again have the lead. The story is by Charles W. Tyler, who wrote the adaptation of "The Cat and the Canary." William Wyle has been chosen as director.

I shall be very curious to see the outcome of this experiment. The film companies seldom have a tremendous success without trying to duplicate it. Take "Underworld." A sequel to that is now being produced.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has also been thinking seriously of trying in some way to follow "London After Midnight." History proves that no sequel has ever equaled the first idea. I speak not alone of the movies, but of short stories and novels as well.

* * *

WHILE the lamentations on the scarcity of leading men have been circling the world, Thomas Meighan has been echoing the same chant, only substituting "lady" for "men."

Both he and Howard Hughes have searched and searched for the right girl to play opposite Tommy in "The Racket," and now it seems their long search has been rewarded. Marie Prevost has been signed by Caddo Company to play the part of Irene, an underworld character and the only woman in the picture.

Tommy is enthusiastic over the idea, too. He feels she is just the type. Marie has only lately finished in the Cecil De Mille picture, "The Godless Girl," and some one who stole a peep at the picture tells me Marie comes pretty near stealing the show. She has gotten much thinner and that blond wig has worked wonders for her—on the screen at least.

Lewis Milestone, who directs Tommy is getting everything in readiness to shoot, and it will be interesting to see what Mr. Meighan does in his first independent production.

LOIS WILSON, tanned, full of pep and Palm Springs health is back home again [illegible] to work. Lois has been sojourning at Mrs. Coffman's famous hostelry and picking up a little desert air. She has started work at the Columbia studios on "Barbary Coast," the next Harry Cohn opera.

As is usually the case in these Cohn dramas, the title is temporary. Mr. Cohn has a curious way of picking up a name that appeals to him and fastening it onto his films, then dropping them when the pictures are made and ready for the market. But at least they are named, which is more than they are in most studios.

Edmund Burns is also one of the leading factors in "Barbary Coast." He has the principal male role. Others in the cast are William V. Mong, Jackie Coombs and Blue Washington, the Negro who did so well in "The Blood Ship." This is a George Seitz production, which Harry Cohn will tell you means something special.

* * *

DOMESTICITY, after all, had a stronger pull with Natalie Talmade Keaton than the chance to play the lead in her husband's picture.

She has withdrawn in favor of Marceline Day, who will support Buster Keaton in his first comedy for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

There has been so much secrecy surrounding Buster's picture that not an iden of the nature of the story has been allowed to leak out. However, our Sherlock Holmes who sees all, knows all and tells all, says that Buster will play a newsreel cameraman.

Edward B. Hatrick, who is in charge of the newsreel heroes in the Hearst organization, ought to be able to give Buster a few pointers. What Mr. Hatrick doesn't know about ways and means of getting newsreel scoops is certainly not worth knowing.

FIRST BATHTUB IN U. S. MADE IN 1842

Original, Built by Cincinnati Man, Weighed Nearly a Ton

Today we regard the bathtub as a necessity and yet less than 85 years ago the United States did not possess one of these most essential articles.

In 1842 a bath tub was built by Adam Thompson in his home in Cincinnati.

He had seen "such a contraption" in England and had a cabinet-maker fit him up a tub of mahogany, seven feet long by four feet wide, lined with sheet lead. It weighed nearly a ton. It was supplied with water from the backyard pump.

The water was piped up the outside of the house to a tank in the attic. From this tank one pipe was coiled down the chimney to supply hot water.

It was crude but, from this humble beginning has evolved our wonderful system of bathing which today makes us the greatest nation on earth. Yes, that is true for "a clean nation is a progressive and ruling nation." History proves this statement many times over.

Shows Alarm

The year following Thompson's experiment Philedelphia became alarmed and passed a public ordinance prohibiting bathing between Nov. 1 and March 15. Two years later in 1845 Boston made bathing unlawful except when prescribed by a physician and Virginia taxed every bathtub $30 per year.

Today every modern home has its bath room and a good many have three or four. Today the bathroom is the most important room in the house and is fast becoming the most beautiful.

A fine display of the most modern fixtures and the most recent developments can be seen at the Show Rooms of The Dreher Supply Co., 184 N. Main st, Marion, Ohio.

MARKET AREA IS NATIONWIDE

High-Grade Building Product Turned Out at Kilns in Upper Sandusky

At Upper Sandusky, not very many miles from Marion is the Wyandot Clay Products Co., a concern of which little is known in Marion County, yet which is nationally renowned for its genuine sand mold brick. This is a brick adaptable to any kind of building, either for residence, schools, churches, hotels or almost any other type of construction.

The Wyandot Clay Products Co. make four main types of brick which are well known to all those acquainted with the better class of brick. These are the Wyandot Colonials, Wyandot Sarouks, Wyandot Moss Rose and Wyandot Reds, also combinations of these types, providing a wide range to choose from.

Thus The Wyandot Clay Products Co. produces brick of many shades of color, including the rough Clinker Antiques which have full auge of color and produce a striking wall effect when handled in loose bond of common mortar. In addition to these types of brick the company also make a good hard line brick and backup tile.

The Wyanot plant has a capacity with its six new kilns of some 20 million brick per year, which makes it one of the outstanding quality brick productions centers in Ohio.

Serves Extensive Area

The company's products are distributed throughout all the states east of the Mississippi and even our neighbors across the northern border in Canada have chosen Wyandot brick for some of their fine buildings. A number of the better hotels and auditoriums in New York, Chicago, Washington, Knoxville and other cities have used Wyandot Clay brick for their exclusive and beautiful surfaces.

All of the kilns used in the making of this brick are down draft, insuring good hard-burned material of exceptionally low moisture absorption, which is a quality that most better architects required of good brick.

Prospective builders and dealers are invited to call at the plant to inspect panels showing many different color combinations and effective mortar bonds.

There are examples of the company's brick in Marion and many nearby cities which The Wyandot Clay Products Company will be glad to show Home Builders of fine class of residence.

Four Ball Teams Loom Strong In National League Race

Giants Improve Over Last Year

Chicago Cubs Have More Than Outside Chance To Run Off with Flag: Pirates and Cardinals on Par with New Yorkers

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

N. Y., April 7—If you must [illegible] why not start [illegible] a megaphone from its [illegible] Arrow, today's track [illegible] attempt to call the Na[illegible]'s preseason situation by [illegible] and, by comparison, [illegible] looks simple and I [illegible] so, at that.

[illegible] from the standpoint [illegible], which is all any [illegible] and still retain his gravity [illegible] one of four clubs [illegible] at the pace without [illegible] explanation to your [illegible]. The Pirates, for ex[illegible] be figured at this time to [illegible] than they were in 1927 and, [illegible] were [illegible] good then, all [illegible] of the league can say is that [illegible] official standings must have been [illegible] too flagrant.

Giants Good

The Giants, regardless of Hornsby's [illegible], have the part of a one-two [illegible]. The Cardinals have too much [illegible] to be rated any worse than the [illegible] and the Cubs, lacking balance [illegible] though they may, have enough class [illegible] various departments to rate a real [illegible] chance.

[illegible] isn't sufficient difference in the [illegible] prospects of the first [illegible] named to award any of them a [illegible] advantage. The National League [illegible] April form sheet therefore, [illegible] be written off as follows:

Pittsburgh Pirates.
New York Giants.
St. Louis Cardinals.
Chicago Cubs.
Cincinnati Reds.
Brooklyn Dodgers.
Boston Braves.
Philadelphia.

Can't Pick Winner

[illegible] is studiously avoiding [illegible] to declare himself on the [illegible] order of the finish in October [illegible], in consequence, is passing up [illegible] by coupling the first three in the [illegible]. The fact is simply that this [illegible] seems to be of almost equal [illegible] at this time.

[illegible] is so much balance to the [illegible] as a whole, however, that it is [illegible] some outfit outside the first [illegible] will break through. The Cubs [illegible] seem to have the best chance of [illegible] this but, if you judge them on [illegible] prospects, it must be admitted [illegible] any club with uncertain infielders [illegible] and third bases can't be a [illegible] at this early stage of the [illegible].

The same factor rates the Dodgers [illegible] down in the second division. They have remarkable pitching and unquestionably more punch than the 1927 club but the right side of the infield is distinctly juvenile.

Have Man at Second

The Pirates, with a ball player at second base for the first time in several years, can't have lost much [illegible] two seasons, even if the Waner[illegible] can't quite repeat their sensational performances as many have hastened to predict. The Pirate pitching may not be quite as good and, then again, with Grimes available, it might be even better.

The Giants suddenly have taken on the aspect of a far better club than the one that finished third in 1927. Roush seems ready for quite a year, the outfield situation is in for better protection and McGraw appears due to get his best pitching since his last championship year in 1924. The catching seems to be in better hands, too. Cohen, successor to Hornsby, has answered most of the questions about his defensive ability at second base.

The quality of pitching that they figure to get is enough alone to keep the Cardinals within a hoarse whisper of the leaders. Third base is the only uncertain factor but with Thevenow and Blades curbed of their 1927 ailments the team as awhole is strengthened.

Cincy Is Fifth

In spite of the continued absence of Donohue following an indifferent season, the Reds are a better bet than the Dodgers and Braves at this time because there is less uncertainty about the Hendricks entry. Its pitching has become rather elderly, a hole may develop in at least one outfield position, its shortstop might be better, and altogether it seems possible that it is about to pass away as a potential contender still, the Reds' "paper form" shows more punch and less uncertainty in defense than the Dodgers, and considerable more balance than the Braves.

PAYNE CONTINUES TO CUT LEADER'S TIME

Suominen Not Excited Over Pace Set by Oklahoman in Marathon

Groom, Texas, April 7—C. C. Pyle's bunion bedouins today moved out of Groom for McLean, their thirty-fifth control. Thirty-six miles was the advance tabulated of the trek.

With Arne Suominen, Detroit naprapath, heading the van with an elapsed time of 204:10:14 for the 1,229.0 miles from Los Angeles to Groom, the other followers in the pack continued to press more closely with each passing day. Suominen maintained a steady pace, and refused to register excitement when officials told him that Andrew Payne, stocky Oklahoman, had cut down his margin by 37 minutes 29 seconds. John Sale, Passaic, New Jersey Finn, who also had been hitting a consistent gait recently, was entrenched in fourth place with a four hour lead over Phillip Granville Hamilton, Ontario.

BOWLING RESULTS

Staging a spurt in the final game, the Selects last night defeated the Epworth Bowling team by a margin of 105 pins.

The handpin tournament will close tonight. Leaders at the present time are: Slagle, 126; Kopp, 115; Williams, 114; Zeisler, 113; McFarland, Metz, D. Shoemaker, 112.

Bookmaking Failure For Sullivan, Records Show

BY FRANK G. MENKE

Jack Dempsey has "gone" for the giddyaps, thus galloping the trail taken by practically every other heavyweight champion in modern history.

Some merely became players: others—like Dempsey—joined the owners ranks. And one or two took a fling at bookmaking.

John L. Sullivan chose the latter course and a redheaded youth wearing a dirty checkered cap, put him out of business.

Along in 1901, which was nine years after Sullivan lost his title, he decided to become a bookmaker. All the books were doing a rather profitable business and John decided he could go and do likewise.

He didn't know that the game embraced plenty of art and science, called for caution and judgment an a lot else. John figured that all he needed to do was to take bets, pay the winners, keep the losing money and always end the day with a profit.

Started With Short Rolls

Sullivan started with a "short bankroll"—perhaps $25,000 which was about all the money he possessed.

The first few days ended not so happily for John. For he finished upon on the wrong side of the ledger. The next few days the story was the same. His losses were not big but the difference between the profits he expected to make and the losses he suffered was large money—and John was getting madder and madder.

Then came the climax.

A youth, wearing the cap and the red hair approached John L.'s stall.

"What's little Gem?" he asked.

"Hundred to one," answered Sullivan.

"A dollar's worth—on the nose," answered the kid, placing a handful of pennies, nickels and dimes on the counter.

Sullivan looked at the "chicken feed," grabbed the kid's cap, swept the money into it and bellowed:

"Get away from here with that stuff. If you want to bet, put up regular money."

Kid Back Again

A few minutes later the kid was back.

"What's Little Gem?" he repeated.

"Hundred to one," snapped Sullivan.

"I suppose you'd be afraid to let me bet $5 worth," said the kid.

"Listen, you little rat," barked Sullivan "I'll let you bet a million at a hundred to one."

The kid handed up $5 and got a ticket reading $500 to $5. Within a few minutes he was back, with another $5. And then a third $5—getting $100 to $1 each time.

Play Scares Bookies

The play around the ring on Little Gem began to scare the bookies. They cut to 50 to 1 and then to 25 to 1 and finally to $20 to 1. And Sullivan slashed the price with them.

It developed afterward, that the red-headed kid had "tipped" a pal to Little Gem and when the other youngster was ready to bet he found 20 to 1 the top price around the ring. He was going to accept that when the redheaded said:—

"Say, I think I can get you better odds than that. If I do will you cut me in for half on the odds above 20 to 1 if the horse wins."

"Sure," agreed the other.

The red-head went back to Sullivan's book.

"What's Little Gem?" he asked.

"Twenty to one," answered Sullivan.

"But what's the price to me?" pressed the kid.

"Twenty to one."

"Ain't you the guy," demanded the kid, "who told me you'd lay me 100 to 1 up to a million? What's the matter did you forget me or did you lose your nerve?"

John L. glared at the kid and then recognized him.

"It's 100 to 1 for you—for as much as you want—you little rat," howled Sullivan. "How much do you want."

"Twenty dollars worth."

And so John L. ordered the writing of a ticket $2000 to $20 when the market odds were only $400 to $20.

Little Gem won the race—by a neck.

The two kids "took" John L. for $3500—and a few other players "took" John L. for $1500 more. That one race cost Sullivan close to $5000 net—and cured him of his bookmaking ideas.

EXPECT TO WIN

U. S. Davis Cup Team Playing Against Mexican Stars

Mexico City, April 7—With two singles matches already in the bag, the United States Davis Cup team is expected to clinch its series with Mexico's representatives today when "Big Bill" Tilden and Arnold T. Jones meet Robert Kinsey and Alfonso Unda in the doubles.

Tilden flashed his old-time form yesterday in defeating Kinsey, the former American star who is now resident of Mexico, in straight sets. His dazzling service kept the former California star at bay throughout the match. The score was 6-1, 6-2.

YANKS IN N. Y.

Baseball Fans To Get First Taste of Sport Today

New York, April 7—Thousands of baseball-hungary fans turned out today to witness the first big league game of the season here. The attraction was the world's champion New York Yankees vs. the Brooklyn Robins, in the first of four exhibition games to be played in New York and Brooklyn.

Many fans who had just about given up hope for the Yanks because of their poor record in the south, experienced a change of heart when they learned that the home run twins, Babe Ruth and Buster Gehrig, finally had come to life. Each hit two homers down in North Carolina yesterday against Charlotte. Gehrig's homers were his first of the year. The Yanks won the game, 28 to 10, despite terrible pitching by Coveleskie, Johnson and Campbell.

SPARTA ATHLETE IS WINNER IN OLYMPIC TRYOUTS AT STATE

Marion Boy Draws Bye in First Round of Sectional Wrestling Contests

Columbus, April 7—Fourteen contestants entered in five classes were still in the running today in the sectional Olympic wrestling tryouts being held at the Ohio State University gymnasium, following the preliminary round last night.

Because only two contestants were entered in the junior heavyweight and the heavyweight divisions the winners of the two classes were determined last night. Harry Steele, of Sparta, 1924 Olympic champion of the world and former champion of the Big Ten and A. A. U. won the right to enter the finals to be held in Grand Rapids, Mich., by defeating Waraska, of Indiana University in the heavyweight division. Dan Whittacre, of Columbus, for two years holder of the Big Ten heavyweight championship will also go the final tryouts in the 191-pound junior heavyweight class following his victory over Wilson, of Indiana University, winner of the Big Ten championship in 1924.

Indianan Wins

Swain, of Indiana University was given a point decision over Shaffer, of Ohio University in the featured battle of the 145-pound division. Swain is holder of the 1928 Big Ten and Shafter is champion of the Ohio Athletic Association.

By flooring Keck of Clarksburg in two minutes and 10 seconds, in the 145-pound class, Carran, of Cleveland, will will go into the final round of the sectional meet this afternoon with the winner of the semi-final match between Swain and Durant, of Columbus, who drew a bye for the first round.

The shortest match of the first round was won by Robinson of Mansfield by a fall over Hicks of Westerville with a time of 31 seconds. The bout was in the 158-pound division. Robinson will meet Reed, of Indiana University who scored a point victory over Gilmore of Croton, O., last night, in the final round this afternoon.

Four In 134-Pound Section

Nine entries of the 134-pound section were cut to four as a result of the matches of the first round. In the semi-final clashes today Heller, of Ohio State, will meet Brannan of Indiana University and Silver, Ohio State, will battle with Keller, Cleveland. In the opening round Keller scored a fall over Fox of Indiana; Silver a fall over Holds, Cleveland; Heller a fall over Cushman, Ohio State, and Brannan a point decision over Liming, Ohio State, who had in a preliminary match eliminated Busha of Cleveland from the tryouts.

Helgerson, Ohio State, was given a place in the final round by his victory over Begolia of Ohio University on a point decision. He will meet the winner of the semi-final match between Scott of Indiana University and Ackley of Marion, who drew a bye for the first round. Scott defeated Tanski of Cleveland by a decision in the first stanza.

By drawing a bye for the first round Chatterton of Columbus, will battle with Vercoe, Ohio State, who outpointed Fauver, also of Ohio State, last night, for the honors in the 123-pound division this afternoon.

Semi-finals and finals in all of the classes with the exception of the 134-pound will be held at the gymnasium starting at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The 134-pound final match will be held at 8 o'clock tonight.

Thor Olsen, Ohio University, and Leo Staley, Ohio State, were referees of the matches. James Oberlander and Dan Hummel, both of Ohio State were judges.

Hartley Seeks $25,000 From Railroad For Loss of Toenail

ATLANTA, Ga., April 7—Grover Hartley, former catcher of the New York Giants, has filed suit for $25,000 against the Georgia Railroad for the loss of a toenail on his right foot.

Hartley claims as the result of the injury, his catching and batting suffered, and he was released by McGraw to Indianapolis. The accident occurred April 6, 1926, when a flagman stepped on Hartley's great toe as the latter was strolling barefooted through the Pullman, enroute to New York from the Florida training camp.

The suit filed by Hartley alleges that as a right hand batter, he was accustomed to throw considerable weight on the toes of his right foot, and that the injured toe caused him to flinch and pull away.

KENTUCKY TEAM IS BEATEN IN TOURNEY

Georgia Five Springs Big Surprise in Defeating Carr Creek Cagers

Chicago, April 7—Carr Creek, Kentucky, had a "wow" of a basketball team—until it bumped up against a raggy squad of southerners from Vienna, Ga.

As a result of that meeting, Vienna today rules the favorite to cop the national interscholastic basketball championship being fought out at the University of Chicago.

Vienna's 22 to 11 win over the Kentucky Mountaineers last night was by all odds the sensation of the tourney to date. And to nearly everybody, except perhaps the Vienna boys themselves, it was the biggest upset of the meet.

The other Kentucky team, from Ashland, qualified for the semi-finals by beating Morris, Ala., 29 to 19.

Grand Forks, N. D., went into the semi-finals with a victory over Alexandria, La., 23 to 22.

The fourth team to qualify was Canton, Ill., who beat out St. George, Utah, 22 to 17.

DIVIDE HONORS

Yale, Army and Columbia Split In Fencing Tourney

New York, April 7—Yale, Army and Columbia divided honors in the intercollegiate fencing tournament just concluded here.

Yale won the "three-weapon" cup with 15 points, scored in the foils, sabres and epees. Army was second with 13 points and Columbia third with 11.

Dernell Every, of Athens, N. Y., Yale captain and foils champion, led the Elis to the team championship in the foils. The swordsmanship of Thomas J. Sands, of Dayton, Ohio, enabled army to retain the team championship in the epee division.

CHICAGO WHITE SOX WIN GAME OVER INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., April 7—The White Sox scored a shutout over the Indians of the American Association here yesterday, the score being 4 to 0. Ted Lyons was the winning pitcher.

In 1890 baseball was far from being the "big business" that it is today. When John T. Brush in that year spent $11,000 in the purchase of new players for the Cincinnati team he was accused of trying to buy the National League championship.

Ohio, which produced the first professional baseball team in America, the famous Cincinnati Red Stockings, has now launched a plan for a State series for junior baseball, as the first step in a campaign to encourage baseball among the boys.

Though ping-pong is an entirely English game, its present great revival is not by any means restricted to that country. The Hungarians have adopted it as their national game, and its devotees are thousands strong in Germany, Sweden, Denmark, Czech-Slovakia and Latvia.

Bud Cram Seeks Bicycle Records

Will Attempt To Smash Endurance and Time Marks in Tests at Carey Monday Morning; To Ride for 30 Hours

BY KARL R. MELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

Two bicycle records both for endurance and distance will be the goal of Bud Cram, star basketball player of Harding High School, when he starts a long run on a mile course at Carey Monday morning.

During the course of his ride, Cram is expected to cover nearly 350 miles in about 30 hours of continuous riding. The distance record held at the present time by Wagner of Shelby is 303 miles while Richard Smith of Washington D. C. hold a time record of 21 hours and 15 minutes.

A course has been laid out over Main st in Carey over which the record breaking attempt will be made. The start will be made at 8 o'clock and the existing records will be broken around Tuesday noon.

Mayor Byers, Carey, according to Cram will act as starter of the race. G. F. Consten, coach at the Carey High School, will be official timer and recorder. Witnesses will be members of the Carey city council and the general secretary of the Upper Sandusky Y. M. C. A.

Cram will attempt to ride continuously regardless of weather conditions until he sets a new record. A chart will be kept at the Y. M. C. A. here covering the progress of the race every six hours.

In an interview this morning, Cram stated that he has been planning the endurance test since last summer and has been training for some time.

CLEVELAND INDIANS WILL PLAY REDS AT CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, April 7—The major baseball teams of Ohio will clash here today when the Cleveland Indians cross bats with the Cincinnati National league club. It will be the Indians' first tussle with major league company this season.

Rails and Industrials Continue Upward Price Swing

MONEY POURS INTO STREET

Bullish Forces Stand Solidly Behind Their Favorites on Market

BY W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

New York, April 7—Both the industrial and the railroad stocks continued their upward price movement this week, in the face of a rapidly mounting volume of speculative loans, a 5½ per cent call loan market and a triple holiday in the exchanges which closed all security markets from Thursday until next week.

Though the volume of stock trading this week was considerably smaller than in the week preceding, bullish forces in Wall Street stood solidly behind their favorites, and the rise in the railroad stocks was an important stimulous for the investment having all along the line. With the release of more than $500,000,000 in interest disbursements for American investors, money literally poured into Wall Street, and the preference was for the "good" stocks of well rated corporations with favorable earnings and divided records.

Hear Rail Rumors

Wall Street heard on good authority that the conference of railroad executives in New York this week had practically turned thumbs down on Leonore F. Loree's proposed trunk line system. Withdrawal of Pennsylvania's Railroad support left Mr. Loree without sufficient backing for his so-called trunk line scheme, though his wide stockholdings of Wabash, Lehigh Valley and other strategic roads make him a factor to be dealt with in the consumation of the proposed Nickel Plate consolidation as well as the acquisition of "feeders" by the New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio, the other members of the big transportation quartet.

Under the lead of New York Central, Delaware & Hudson, Nickel Plate and a dozen or more of the better grade of railroad stocks, this section of the market gained considerable momentum in the upward direction this week. It was recognized that the rails were considerably "behind the market" on any of the ratios of market price to net earnings claimed for the industrial and motor stocks, and it required very little buying to send prices to the highest levels of the year. Nor was the rail list to be outdone in the matter of price sky-rocketing, Pittsburgh and West Virginia furnishing the pyrotechnics in this section of the market with a 30-point jump to 154, and Delaware & Hudson gaining 11 points in one session.

New Encouraging

On the whole, the business and industrial news of the week was encouraging. Expansion of the steel, motor car, building constructon, copper and other important industries as fully up to expectations, and the gains in other directions confirmed the hopeful forecasts of the leaders of American business. The big merchantile houses are showing a 10 per cent gain over gross business as compared with the same month of last year. Collapse of the crude rubber market in New York and London followed naturally the announcement of the removal of exportation restrictions from British possessions and it would not be surprising if American rubber interests made a big effort to strengthen their hold on the world's rubber producting areas.

Bullish market activities broakened this week, to include a number of the specialties, with airplane stocks soaring spectacularly near the week-end. General Motors led a final move in the motor shares, and Radio recovered the bulk of its early losses. Mercantile stocks were active and strong.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 7—A shift to cooler weather and rains in the corn belt was expected to have some effect in strengthening the corn market today after its considerable decline on liquidation by tired longs.

Moisture in the Southwest, on the contrary, is just what is needed in the winter wheat belt and should prove beneficial to the growing crop if it is not followed by freezing temperature.

The record of the open interest in the futures markets, issued by the Grain Futures Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture for the month of March, shows interesting trends in the trade. Wheat transactions expanded in volume in the average daily trade, increasing the open interest about 6,000,000 bu. at the end of the month over the first.

Liquidation in Corn

Corn, oats and rye, on the other hand, showed a shrinking volume of transactions and wound up the month with smaller open interest than at the beginning. In corn the change was most decided. The drop in open contracts was from 103,147,000 bushels on March 1 to 94,019,000 on March 31.

Much of this decrease was due to evening up in the March future, but the shrinkage demonstrates also a good deal of general liquidation. The loss in the average open interest for March from the average for February, however, was inconsequential, being less than 1,000,000 bushels.

Analysis of the figures confirms general observations made during last month: that the professional trade was turning its attention from corn to wheat.

Bears May Be Cautious

Liquidation in corn, which continued this week, may have put that market in a sounder condition technically than it has been in for some time. The action today will perhaps demonstrate this.

Selling of both corn and wheat on Thursday against the holiday yesterday may have forestalled Saturday selling that is not unusual. In such a case bears may be cautious about pressing any early decline in the markets during the short session today.

PERMITS ARE ISSUED FOR THREE GARAGES

W. [illegible] pastor of First United Brethren Church and a member of the [illegible] committee of the Ohio Pastors Union. Serum from Little Piggies Rejuvenates Fading Beauty

BY SHIRLEY KIRKE

"PIGS is pigs," but—

Pigs—common barn yard pigs—will give women of the future a face as smooth and beautiful as that of her flapper granddaughter.

Pumkin, the stuff footballs are, stands revealed by a German scientist, American director of the Wassermann Institute of Berlin, as the main ingredient of a newly-developed serum that he says will enable women to shed their years and their wrinkles.

Dr. Josef Franz Kapp, prominent in both German and American medical circles, and noted for years for his epochal experiments, is an erect, robust man of fifty-three, whose reassuring smile sets off the severity of his mustache.

"In a few years," he predicted, "it will be impossible to guess a woman's age by looking at her face."

"But don't be horrified," Dr. Kapp hastily added. "Everything, even beauty, has its lowly beginning. The results are sure to delight Madame."

First, the skin tissues of the pig are removed, thoroughly cleansed and cut into small pieces. These sections are run through a L'Abadie mill and distilled water and a small quantity of phenol added. The resulting serum is injected into the ear-vein of the rabbit.

After fourteen days the rabbit is killed and its blood withdrawn. When placed in a container, Dr. Kapp explained, the clear liquid which rises to the top is withdrawn. And this liquid is the youth-giving mixture.

"Strangely enough," said the scientist, "The older the woman the more noticeable the improvement. Several women looked twenty years younger after receiving treatments.

DR. JOSEF FRANZ KAPP

The new "youth serum" treatments require six to eight weeks, he said. Sometimes the effect lasts several years; in other cases the treatment must be repeated in a year if madame wishes to retain her youthful appearance.

ON D. A. R. BLACKLIST?

Dr. Mary E. Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke College, is believed to have been barred by the Daughters of the Revolution, in Massachusetts, from speaking before their organization. Dr. Woolley is the first woman ever to speak from the pulpit of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J.

SIX ARE CONVERTED AT REVIVAL SERVICE

Evangelist Speaks on "Repentance" at Oakland Church

Six persons were converted at the revival service last night at Oakland Evangelical Church when Miss Irene Blue, Cleveland evangelist, preached on "Repentance." Miss Blue and Miss Gertrude Esser, Cleveland, sang a duet. Attendance was good.

There were two responses to an invitation to the altar at the revival at First United Brethren Church, also well-attended. Evangelist Chas. Vernon Roop of Findlay preached on the text, Luke 15:18, "I will arise and go to my Father." There have been 42 conversions since opening of the revival a week ago.

To Close Sunday

The revival will close Sunday. Reverend Roop will preach at the morning service on the subject "The Good Shepherd" and new members will be received into the church and the ordinance of baptism administered at that time. Sunday night Reverend Roop will preach on the subject "Preparedness."

At the revival service last night at Pilgrim Holiness Church, five responded to a call to the altar. There was good attendance. There will be three services Sunday, in addition to a sunrise prayer service at 6 o'clock. Rev. Earl Delaney of Ashland, O., will preach.

STEPHENSON SHOWS KLAN CORRUPTION

Deposition Taken from Former Leader of K. K. K. in Pennsylvania Court Action

Chicago, April 7—Character assassination, intrigue, political corruption, inciting mob violence, even murder, all masked under the white robes and the fiery cross of the Ku Klux Klan.

An organization founded to inspire high devotion to country changed to a one-man order which crushed out all opposition or enemies without regard to individual sacrifice or honor.

Men "who prayed to God and good angels with their lips—and dipped their hands in the sordid cesspools of intrigue."

That is the once powerful Ku Klux Klan as revealed by David C. Stephenson, Indiana's former Klan leader, once second in command of the national organization, who is serving a life sentence in the Indiana State Penitentiary for murder.

The full story of the "invisible empire" is revealed in the deposition by Stephenson, taken in a Pennsylvania court fight over the hooded order.

Taken in Suit

The deposition was taken in a suit brought by the Klan against five rebellious members of the organization Pennsylvania, who filed a petition for an injunction to restrain the Klan from transacting any business whatever in that state, on the grounds that the Klan has incited riots, misappropriated funds, excited evil influences over public officials, and constituted a public menace.

It was in support of these contentions, filed in answer to the Klan suit against the five "rebels," that the Stephenson deposition was taken.

Stephenson was questioned by Van A. Berrickman of Pittsburgh in the presence of Attorney John H. Connaughton, counsel for the Klan; Rev. John F. Strayer of McKeesport, Pa., one of the "rebels," and a court reporter.

LAKE CARRIERS CHARGED WITH VIOLATION OF LAW

Cleveland, April 7—Following an investigation by Harold B. Teegarden special assistant to the United States Attorney General, into charges of conspiracy to open the Great Lakes shipping season late and close early, in order to control shipping rates, in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, various ship-owners, members of the Lake Carriers' Association here, face prosecution, United States District Attorney A. E. Bernsteen declared today.

"Our investigation has disclosed that these men have conspired to control prices in direct violation of the anti-trust law," Bernsteen explained.

The names of those threatened with prosecution were not made public.

U. S. TO TAKE PART

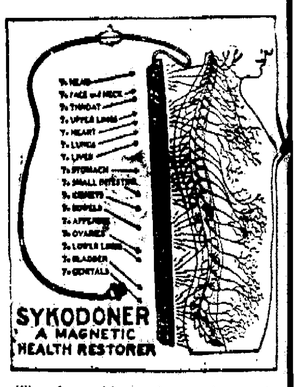
Washington, April 7—The United States will participate with 51 nations in Berlin next October in an international aeronautical exhibition expected by aviation authorities to be the greatest air show in history. Every type of flying equipment from all quarters of the globe will be displayed in three exhibition halls comprising more than two million square feet of floor space.

ANOTHER GREEN CAMP FARMER REJOICES

Rheumatism Quickly Yields To Famous Sykodoner—As Usual

Crowds Increasing In New Office Parlors

Mr. Wm. Tron, another good farmer from Green Camp, Ohio, now knows what it is to use the wonderful Sykodoner, that all Marion is talking about.



The favorable and amazing results reported by the sick from the use of Sykodoner self-treatment, should encourage all and every sufferer. Excerpts from testimonials of users, (some of whom were skeptical at first, but are now its most devoted advocates) are found almost everywhere. Investigate and benefit from their experience. The Sykodoner is the wonder of the age! It does not treat disease; it aims at the cause. This accounts for its wonderful results in practically all kinds of human ailments. So regardless of what your ailment is, or what others have told you, do not give up. We welcome the most difficult cases—those that have resisted all other forms of treatment. It is safe and harmless, but wonderfully effective. It is tonic, rejuvenescent, and soothing and will reach the seat of any ailment or disorder of the human system, arousing activity by an external magnetic treatment. It being a systemic or basic treatment, it will regulate the entire body. It is entirely new and different—nothing else like it in principle. It is a discovery by one of the most eminent biologists in the world—Prof. Otto Warburg, of Germany. So valuable to medical science was it considered, that the faculty of the Rockefeller Institute, world renowned medical research laboratories of the world, invited Prof. Warburg to visit America, and demonstrate his wonderful discovery. It is now in Marion, where all—rich and poor alike, may avail themselves of this opportunity.

All Marion is talking about it now. No drugs, surgery, serum, or radium. Only the most delightfully, nerve soothing treatment known. You can not afford to miss it. See the Sykodoner man today or phone 2760, when one of our lady nurses will call; and in the comforts of your own home give you the most amazing demonstration of your life. It will simply astound you, beyond measure. All without cost or obligation.

We are now located in our new, beautiful office-parlors—543 N. Greenwood St., Marion, Ohio. Plenty of parking space, at all times. Hours, daily: 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Also Sunday forenoons.

Do a kind act by sending this to an afflicted friend.—Adv.

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

T[illegible]as Saturday, and I don't [illegible] kind of a day it is tomor[illegible] today was sunshiny and we all took off our shoes [illegible] but Whitey, who wears [illegible] and a necktie. Whitey [illegible] deceiving his mother [illegible]erfooty without lettin[illegible] I told him if that would [illegible] his mother his mother [illegible] very brite. Every mother [illegible] her boy goes barefoot with[illegible]wing it. I almost had to [illegible]ause I said his mother [illegible] very brite. He is a good [illegible] I can lick him, so when [illegible] I didn't say she wasn't [illegible] that I just don't think [illegible] he accepted my apology, [illegible] still standing looking a[illegible] when Banty came, and he [illegible]ggets out of the piano. [illegible] When I told him that two of [illegible] he said to let's see me [illegible] and then he said they weren't [illegible] he said I had gave mine to [illegible] and that he had got the [illegible] got from her. He said [illegible] the ones that were mine I [illegible] and tell his mother so, and [illegible] said that was right, so I [illegible] the little crook a slap in the face and told him I would win the three of them off of him and he would never see them again. So we played and I wasn't so very lucky, because he dreeded me of the last one I had, and then he wouldn't start me. That is the kind of a fella he is.

I went home to get my bat and ball and go back to the lot and start a ball game, but my mother told me to take Annabelle Lee on her scooter and take her out in the sunshine. So I pushed and she worked her feet some and we got over to the vacant lot and when the bunch saw me they began to hooraw me and call me a nurse girl and ast me for a kiss. I was threatening to push their faces in, and finely when I looked around for Anna belle Lee she was gone. I looked all over for her, and then I went home scairt that I would get licked, because scooters cost good money, but the Lost Bag of Tripe had swiped her from behind my back and tooken her home. He told my mother he found her alone crying on the street and recognized her and brang her home. And my mother had gave him a nickel.

When I had told her how it was I went looking for him. But I didn't have any luck. The crook!

SEVEN WORDS TOPICS AT GALION SERVICE

Business Suspended in Crawford County City for Good Friday Rites

Galion, April 7—The seven words of the cross were used as topics for brief sermons by seven Galion ministers yesterday, at the Union Good Friday services held at United Brethren Church. Business in the city was suspended from 12:45 until 3 o'clock and the services which were arranged by the local ministerial association were impressive and appropriate.

Rev. D. B. Shumaker had charge of the opening devotionals and Rev. E. D. Hammond assisted. Musical numbers with Mrs. John Steele at the organ preceded each sermon. Rev. S. A. Stephan, Rev. O. C. Kramer, Rev. R. E. Porter, Rev. George F. Zinn, Rev. E. C. Thompson, Rev. W. O. Montague and Rev. Joseph Lamy were those who gave sermons.

Following the services the federated missionary societies of the city held a special prayer service in charge of the officers of the various organizations.

Services were held at St. Patrick's Church yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and last night. Rev. Michael McFadden was in charge. Rev. F. A. Schreiner of St. Joseph's Church was in charge of morning services at the church and also special observances last night.

A German Good Friday service was held at Trinity Lutheran church with Rev. J. J. Allwardt officiating and at the First Methodist church communion services were celebrated. Preparatory services were held at First Reformed Church and Rev. Philip Auer of Peace Lutheran used as the subject for his final Holy Week address, "They Crucified Him."

FIRST STEPS TAKEN IN CITY SEWER WORK

Two Trouble Points Located, Is Belief of New Inspector

Belief that he has located two places where there are faulty city sewer connections and that correction of the situation at these points will be an important step in solving the sewer problem was expressed today by Carl H. Tozzer, recently appointed as city building inspector.

Since taking over his new duties, Tozzer has been making a survey of the sewers and is mapping out plans for eliminating faulty connections. The trouble to be remedied results from sanitary drains emptying into storm water lines.

It is expected that city council, at its meeting Monday night, will take steps to provide help for Tozzer in his sewer work.

At one time it was thought that a house-to-house canvass would be necessary to locate cross connections in the sewer system. Tozzer states that he hopes to work out a plan which will solve the problem without making this canvass.

YOUTH FREED

Insufficient Evidence To Hold Grootegoed for Manslaughter

Cleveland, April 7—Roy Grootegoed, 20, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Alice Leonard, 15-year-old Mayfield Heights school girl, was freed by Justice of the Peace W. J. Zoul, following a motion by the youth's attorney, George W. Gurney that there was insufficient evidence to hold him on the charge.

Grootegoed had been held in County Jail since April 3, after he admitted that his auto struck the Leonard girl Jan. 28, last, as she was walking along the highway enroute to a basketball game. Her body was not found until last Monday.

Grootegoed's explanation of his two months silence was that he "was too scared to tell anyone about the accident." He said he carried the girl's body into a nearby field, after his auto struck her. It was found by school boys, playing baseball.

Every Little Shimmy Makes For Bigger Tomato Crop

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University

Columbus, O., April 7—A new use for the "shimmy" has been found by Prof. L. M. Montgomery, of Ohio State University who has placed Gilda Gray's world-famed movements into practical application of growing hothouse tomatoes.

By a method of pollination perfected by Professor Montgomery which is thought will result in great savings to hothouse tomato growers all over the country, the pollen of the blossom comes into contact with the stigmatic surface of the pistil through a "shimmy" movement of the plant performed by the attendant. The result is a larger crop for the housed vegetable, the professor says.

When grown out of doors according to Montgomery, the wind will agitate the plant enough to produce the desired results.

The hand pollination system perfected by Professor Montgomery and his assistants is exceedingly simple, in that he uses a soft rabbit tail attached on the end of a stick to shake the tomato blossom and free the pollen grains. The "shimmy" application is administered to the tomato plant every other day while it is in blossom.

A method of mechanical agitation which Professor Montgomery is testing with good results is accomplished by fastening the tomato plants to a framework of wood and using a small electric motor for obtaining the movements

UNRULY WEATHER SETS BACK BREMEN'S FLIGHT

Dublin, April 7—After all preparations had been made and a definite time for a take-off had been set, unruly weather over the Atlantic today again prevented the monoplane Bremen from starting on its attempt to span the Atlantic in a westward flight.

Why buy performance that CHRYSLER "72" has obsoleted?.....

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Crown Sedan $1795

CHRYSLER "72" performance obsoletes all other performance at its price or even for $1000 more.

The first Chrysler, four years ago, put in the discard the cumbersome, bulky vehicles of its day.

Chrysler "72" performance widens that margin of superiority.

No other car today approaches it for roadability, hill climbing, acceleration, dependability, comfort, ease of handling, style, safety, long life and appearance.

For Chrysler's engineering genius and precision manufacture have gone steadily forward to greater heights.

That is why the "72" today gives you performance that sets the pace for the entire industry for years to come. 75 brake horsepower. 72 miles and more per hour. Vibrationless smoothness that only a Chrysler counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft can give. Flashing acceleration in traffic. There are no hills to the "72."

Longer chassis with no side-sway—spring ends mounted in rubber shock insulators give consummate ease of riding.

Why pay a premium for the out-of-date performance others give? See and ride in the Chrysler "72." You will realize then how Chrysler "72"—at less money—makes a dead letter of all other performance in its field today. (22m)

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Prices
